DIVERSIFIED PRODUCTION ON FARMS PROPOSED

Secretary of Kansas State Board of Agriculture Gives His Views

By FRANK E. MILLER
For International News Service

WICHITA, Kan., July 16.—The real panacea for the ills of the wheat industry is diversification. Such was the message of today of J. C. Mohler, secretary of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture to hundreds of farmers who gathered here from all parts of the great mid-western wheat belt to work out the salvation of the industry—in the face of the product selling for less than $1 per bushel.

The world, Mohler said, is over-loaded with wheat. Because European farmers turned to this product, when their continent was hungry, there is now an abundance there, he said, and consequently the European market has diminished; the hope to increase a domestic consumption to absorb the domestic surplus is futile.

Suggests Remedy
"Therefore, it seems we must face the realization that the wheat market has broken under an over supply," the agriculturalist declared, summing up the situation as to supply and demand.

"If that is correct," he asked, "what is the remedy?" It is, as it appears to me, to change the farming methods to meet the congested conditions, or, in a word, diversification.

"In the solution of our agricultural problems, law-makers have done what they could, but the remedy is not to be found in legislative enactments alone," he added.

They Cannot Cure
"National and state policies of administration may mitigate but they cannot cure. Co-operation, with its wonderful possibilities realized, is a corrective and alone cannot reach the seat of trouble. Special campaigns to induce larger home consumption will have visible effect and all of the agencies working together can only modify the symptoms.

"The most effective direct remedy lies in the management of the farm itself. And this can best be done through diversification."

TRAIN WRECKAGE WILL BE BURNED

Fire to Clear Cajon Pass of Debris Left by Crash Of U. P. Freight

SAN BERNARDINO, July 16.—Preparations were being made here today to burn the wreckage of a thirty-car freight train of the Union Pacific railroad, which left the tracks in Cajon pass last night after the air brakes failed to work while the train was traveling between sixty and eighty miles per hour, killing Cleveland Palmer, fireman, and W. B. Hamlin, and seriously injuring C. F. Holland, engineer.

Palmer was killed instantly when he was hurled forty feet through his cab window to the paved highway. Hamlin was crushed in the mass of wreckage and died while being rushed to a hospital. The freight train was loaded with cars loaded with cement and coal.

Chinese Forget Revolutions As Result Of Jazz

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Jazz may be a disturbing factor in the U. S. A., but it is causing the Chinese to forget revolutions, according to Miss Pixley Ranney of Indianapolis, dancer, who returned today from an Oriental tour.

"Jazz is becoming more popular in China than revolutions," she said. "If it keeps up they'll have no more time for fighting. Why, even the rickshaw drivers have learned to shimmy."

Ham An' Eggs, Down In Price, Lose Popularity At American Breakfast

CHICAGO, July 16.—Ham and eggs, which, with the succulent pie, have been the premier blue-bloods of American grub aristocracy ever since Columbus and his intrepid yachtsmen ferried over, were threatened today with permanent loss of their social niche.

Either the hungry husband and the little woman are breakfasting more and more on sawdust cereals or else they're not breakfasting much at all.

At least, such was the impression created by the announcement here of Thomas E. Wilson, president of the packing company, which bears his name, that despite wholesale ham prices being 25 to 33 per cent lower than a year ago, no one is in the slightest degree excited about it.

Ham is being used, but there is the inference that the hawg, like the old grey mare, isn't what he used to be.

Although other pork products are at pre-war levels, the public is not taking advantage of it in a way to make this packing town pat itself on the paunch and beam:

"Looks like a big year," Unless the public does, why then, like the dauphins of France, the tribunes of the Tiger and the Grandees of Castile, another and even greater noble—ham-and-eggs country—will be no more.

CABINET RESIGNS IN FILIPINO ROW

General Wood Facing Crisis As Members of Board of Control Quits

MANILA, July 16.—Following an almost continuous conference for the past forty-eight hours at the home of Manuel Quezon, president of the senate and Filipino political leader, the Philippine cabinet, with the exception of Vice Governor Eugene A. Gilmore, who is secretary of public instruction, signed a document tendering their resignations, which was submitted to Governor General Leonard Wood. This marks a crisis in the relationship between the governor-general and Philippine governmental participation which has been strained some months and presents a problem that probably only congress or the president will be able to solve.

It was understood today that Quezon and Speaker Roxas of the house will tender their resignations from the board of control of which Governor Wood is the third member, thus leaving Governor Wood without a constitutional co-operation in the conduct of the government.

Since Quezon controls the legislature that body is not expected to co-operate with the governor-general.

Major Fernandez also resigned today. Apparently Senate Leader Quezon is the moving spirit in the effort to shear the governor-general of his powers.

Mrs. Alden Branine Objects To Receiving Goods She Did Not Order

Mrs. Alden Branine of 700 South Columbus avenue informed the police department Saturday afternoon that she was the victim of a practical joke. An unknown person telephoned on order to the Glendale Ice Cream company at 109 North Glendale avenue for five gallons of ice cream. Then he phoned to the Broadway Central Market at 219 West Broadway to deliver two sacks of flour, half a sack of potatoes and some choice meat. All packages had arrived C. O. D. Meanwhile, a truck from Ware's transfer at 113 East Broadway had been sent to the residence to move a piano—which didn't happen to be there. About that time, Mrs. Branine ceased to smile, became annoyed and called up the police department. The police are looking for the joker.

Masquerader Indicted On Charge of Murder

CHICAGO, July 16.—Fred G. Thompson, who imagines he is a woman and dresses and behaves as one, was indicted today on a murder charge in the killing of Richard C. Tesmer, wealthy insurance dealer. Thompson, whom the murder revealed to be living with a man as his "wife" and with a woman as her husband, protested his innocence anew when told of the indictment.

DIES OF INJURIES

TACOMA, July 16.—First Sergeant Fred A. Lippard, 34, 10th Field Artillery, Camp Lewis, died at the Camp Lewis hospital late Saturday from injuries received when the motorcycle he was riding skidded and overturned as he endeavored to pass a truck on the highway near here.

12-Mile Limit May Be Asked From Congress

WASHINGTON, July 16.—If the state department is not able to get foreign nations to agree to extend the American right of search and seizure, from three to twelve miles as an additional protection against rum running ships, legislation to extend the three mile limit for the purposes of prohibition enforcement will be urged at the beginning of the sixty-eighth congress, it was announced here this afternoon by Senator Sterling, Republican, of South Dakota.

NINE HURT WHEN TRAINS COLLIDE

New York Subway Passengers Treated in Hospital Following Crash

NEW YORK, July 16.—Nine persons were injured, none fatally, when two subway trains of the Interborough Rapid Transit company crashed in a head-on collision at 270th street and Jerome avenue. Seven of the injured were taken to Fordham hospital. The others were given emergency treatment and taken to their homes. Many other passengers suffered minor bruises.

One train was empty, being shunted from the Interborough company's car barns. This train, officials explained, ran head on into the express train.

At the point of the collision the subway trains operate on an elevated structure in the open. Guard rails kept the cars from plunging to the street, officials said.

The motorman said he was unable to stop his train when the empty train cut across the path. His injuries are the most serious of the entire number who were hurt.

Badge Bandit Resumes Assaults on Autoists

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—The so-called "badge bandit," after an absence of several weeks, reappeared early today when he held up Ray Durkee and Miss Marie Celler while motoring to Lankershim.

After dragging Durkee from the automobile, the bandit struck him over the head with a blackjack and then drove away with the girl. He let her out of the machine five miles down the road.

Durkee reported to the sheriff's office that the bandit stopped him and flashed an officer's badge. After coming to a stop Durkee said the bandit robbed him of $20 and the machine.

Dawn-to-Dawn Flight Is Postponed Again

MINNEAPOLIS, N. Y., July 16.—The "hop off" for Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan's second attempt to fly from New York to San Francisco between daylight and darkness was again postponed today. Failure of mechanics to complete alterations and repairs on Maughan's plane caused the delay.

SOAP KING IS DEAD AT PASADENA

David B. Gamble, Active in Educational and Church Work, Long Ill

PASADENA, July 16.—David B. Gamble of the firm of Proctor & Gamble, soap manufacturers, died today at the Pasadena hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Gamble, who was born in Cincinnati on November 6, 1847, was formerly president of the board of directors of Occidental college in Los Angeles and was also recognized as one of the leading laymen of the Presbyterian church in the United States.

Mr. Gamble retired from business before coming to California about fifteen years ago and his activities in Southern California were in promoting the cause of education and contributing financially to missionary work of the Presbyterian church. He was reputed to be the biggest contributor to the missionary funds of his church.

Taken To Hospital
Several weeks ago Mr. Gamble, who was 76 years old, was taken to the hospital, but because of his age was unable to combat the illness that had troubled him for years.

He is survived by a wife and three sons, Cecil, who is a member of the firm of Proctor & Gamble; Sidney and Clarence, who are engaged in research work in the east.

Funeral services will be held from the Gamble home here on Wednesday afternoon. The body will be sent to Cincinnati for burial.

PLAN SERIES OF TENNIS MATCHES

Tournaments Will Be Held Throughout Summer on Local Courts

A series of tennis tournaments, under the auspices of Glendale Community Service, are announced by William Bode, chairman of the committee in charge.

The tournaments will start in about two weeks and will continue through the balance of the summer. Sets of matches to the extent of seven are already scheduled. Mr. Bode states. There will be matches for junior boys, young men and seniors; for junior girls, young women and seniors, and for business men.

The games will be played on various courts around the city, among them the Patterson avenue court and the Glendale Union High school courts. The business men's matches will probably be run off at 6 o'clock in the morning, while the other matches will take place in the evenings and on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Bode states that George E. Farmer, cashier of the Glendale State bank, will work with him in arranging the details of the tournaments. Success, he feels, depends largely upon number of entries made and enthusiasm evoked.

Information may be obtained and entries made by communicating with Mr. Bode at the Glendale Phonograph company, 126 South Brand boulevard; with Mr. Farmer, at the Glendale State bank, 103 East Broadway, or with R. Ernest Tucker, executive secretary of Community Service, at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, 150 South Brand boulevard.

REPORT HEAVY VOTING IN MINNESOTA

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 16.—Early this afternoon indications were that Minnesota would cast a vote well up to normal in the special election today to elect a successor to the late United States Senator Knute Nelson. Heavy voting is reported here and in Minneapolis and Duluth, due to last hour efforts of Republicans, who, in the belief that a full vote would elect J. A. O. Preus, their candidate, made desperate efforts over Saturday and Sunday to bring out the voters.

RESTRAIN ARIZONA FROM MINIMUM WAGE

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—A temporary injunction restraining the state of Arizona from enforcing the minimum wage law for women, which is $16 a week, was granted today by Federal Judges Ross, Bledsoe and Sawtelle, sitting en banc here. The injunction was granted pending ruling on the minimum wage law for women in the United States supreme court, which is considering the question in connection with another case.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Following investigations on its own motion in compliance with the requirements of what is known as the "safety act," the railroad commission today granted the Los Angeles Railway corporation until July 1, 1924, to eliminate the hazardous conditions on its lines. Extensions of time were also granted to the cities of Burbank and Glendale under the same act.

HOT BATTLE FOR SEAT IN SENATE

Minnesota Contest Narrows Down to Fight Between Preus and Johnson

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 15.—This state, which for years and years has been agreed upon as a Republican bastion, gave the old guard a thrill today as voters of the state went to the polls to choose a successor to the late United States Senator Knute Nelson. Republicans, without exception, were uneasy of the result, but the contest admittedly was between the Republican candidate, Governor J. O. A. Preus, and Magnus Johnson, the standard bearer of the Farmer-Labor party.

Fair weather prevailed throughout the state, and city voting places this morning reported a normal early turnout of voters. Such reports as came in from country districts gave little indication as to how heavy the rural vote would be. The weather is ideal for early haying and harvest, but headquarters of all three parties had Sunday reports that the farmers would vote in nearly normal numbers, due to the intensive campaign by all candidates.

PROBE NEW CLEW IN MURDER CASE

Finger Prints Obliterated in Oesterreich Home, Is Police Claim

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—With stray bits of unexpected evidence constantly drifting in from strange sources, the police today took up the trail of a new clew in the death of Fred Oesterreich, former Milwaukee clothing manufacturer, whose widow, Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich, is now held in the county jail on a charge of murdering her husband.

The new clew, the police say, indicates that after Oesterreich's death every precaution was taken by the perpetrators of the crime to remove all fingerprints that might lead to the detection of the slayers.

The police were stimulated in their activities by the sworn statement of J. W. Plazek, furniture worker, that he was employed to repaint the door of the closet in which Mrs. Oesterreich claims she was locked at time of the murder.

HARDING STARTS ON RETURN TRIP

Hoover and Work Open Probe of Alaska Business Men's Grievances

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 16.—One hundred and fifty miles south of the Arctic circle, the farthest north any prominent governmental official ever penetrated, President Harding turned southward today and started the long and tedious journey back to the sea coast. The return trip is to be extended over several days and made by flyover, river boat and train from here.

Fairbanks is the metropolis of the far north and the distributing and commercial center for the great interior and the Yukon river territory. Half through his inspection trip into the interior of the industrial and mining regions, the president found Fairbanks a picturesque town whose frame shacks and pretentious store fronts are reminiscent of the movies. The town is turning itself inside out to entertain the party. Flags decorate the main streets and everything is dressed up.

The nearly 500 miles which President Harding covered in his three-day journey from Seward proved a revelation to him and his cabinet and other officials in the party.

The official party will be split up at Fairbanks today with the president and some others going flyover to McCarthy, sixty miles away, while others, including Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of the Interior Work, go back by train to Anchorage where they will hold public hearings on some grievances Alaskan business men have to air.

REPARATIONS ISSUE MAY SEPARATE ENTENTE

British Press Denounces Poincare's Declaration; U. S. to Get Note

BULLETIN
LONDON, July 16.—Just as it had begun to appear that Premier Poincare had struck an irremediable blow at Anglo-French unity on the reparations issue, officials of both the British and French foreign offices today issued reassuring statements to allay public alarm.

British foreign office officials said they were hopeful that France would modify her viewpoint when the British reparations note is delivered at Paris this week.

BULLETIN
PARIS, July 16.—A statement designed to conciliate Great Britain was issued at the foreign office today within less than twenty-four hours after Premier Poincare had delivered his aggressive reparations speech at Senlis.

M. Poincare's speech, it was stated, was written before Premier Baldwin made his statement on reparations in the House of Commons, in London, and therefore could not be considered a reply to the British premier.

The Senlis speech made it appear that M. Poincare was rejecting the reparations suggestions made by Premier Baldwin.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service
LONDON, July 16.—The end of the Anglo-French entente has been brought appreciably nearer by Premier Poincare's Sunday speech, according to widespread opinion in Great Britain today.

The speech appears to end hope that Great Britain will be able to continue to co-operate with France upon the reparations issue. British newspapers were almost unanimous in denouncing the French premier's declarations.

Premier Poincare tells us in advance that he intends to reject the British reparations reply to Germany, and that France intends to hold the Ruhr," said the Chronicle, the personal organ of former Premier David Lloyd George.

Refuses to Pay
Premier Poincare said that France would concede nothing and he had made it plain that Great Britain must follow wherever he dictates. France is prosperous, but refuses to pay her debts. Meanwhile, M. Poincare tells us that France is suffering, but she is unmindful of the suffering of Italy and Belgium, who, as well as ourselves, bear the burden of the great war. France continues to tear up the treaty of Versailles by her action. She is destroying our prospects of realizing indemnities as well as her own. She is smashing up the trade of Europe, paralyzing our industries and keeping tens of thousands of workers idle. How can we preserve the Anglo-French entente under such circumstances?

Copy for U. S.
Premier Baldwin informed the house of commons this afternoon that a copy of the British reparations note will be communicated to the United States.

There are indications that Premier Baldwin is having trouble within the cabinet. This was intimated by an editorial in the Tory organ, Morning Post, which took a more kindly view of the (Continued on page 5)

SOCIAL EVENTS

At Bettis Home

A delightful party and a delicious dinner was enjoyed Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary I. Bettis, 1124 San Rafael, who honored her daughter, Mrs. Alfred Molitor, on the occasion of her birthday. Mrs. Molitor formerly lived here, but more recently has called Phoenix, Ariz., "home."

The dining-room was beautifully decorated in white and green, covers being laid for ten relatives and guests as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bettis of Los Angeles, the former being a brother of the honoree; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kirk of Los Angeles, the latter being a sister; Paul Killian, a brother; Miss Nettie Killian, and Mrs. E. A. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Molitor and Mrs. Bettis.

Class Entertains
The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Widdows of 1246 Winchester avenue, was the scene of a pleasant social affair last Friday night when the members of the Friendly Women's class entertained the members of the Men's class.

This affair was the culmination of a membership contest between these two classes of which Mrs. W. C. Widdows is leader of the Friendly Women's Class and R. A. Boyles leader of the Men's class, the victorious class.

During the evening a pleasing program was presented consisting of readings by Mrs. M. E. Canfield, vocal solos by J. A. Meyers, and Mrs. A. R. Blachly and violin selections by Myron Carman.

A cafeteria supper was served on the lawn of the Widdows home and a general good time enjoyed. There were about fifty present.

Musical Affair

Another delightful informal affair took place last night at the Edwin Cleophas home at 337 North Central avenue. Mrs. Cleophas and Miss Gertrude Cleophas entertained a group of musical friends in honor of Alexander Salmavsky, director of the People's Symphony of San Francisco.

Other guests were Neil St. Clair Livingston and daughter, Helen, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Fraenkel, Mrs. Mae E. Hoss, Mr. and Mrs. Leonardo de Lorenzo of Los Angeles, Mrs. Martina Towler of Berkeley, Miss Lalla Saggi and Mrs. Elizabeth Straith-Miller.

They will spend most of their time in eastern Canada, visiting relatives and friends. They expect to be gone about two months. During their absence R. Reynolds will be in charge of the bakery.

Factory men over 40 rarely have perfect eyesight.

Shower Honoree

Miss Helen Appleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Appleton, of 721 East Windsor road, whose engagement to Richard Grauel, of Fresno, was announced recently at a banquet given at the Wilshire Inn by a group of girls of the First Methodist church of Los Angeles, was the complimented guest at a miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon, given by Miss Ruth Gray, at her home, 226 Griffin avenue, Los Angeles.

Pink and white were the colors chosen by Miss Gray for the decorations, the rooms being decorated with pink and white carnations and numerous pink and white hearts. The refreshments served also carried out the pretty pink and white color scheme in the ices and favors.

As a diversion each guest was given a wooden clothes pin and a slip of paper indicating some member of a bridal party and was requested with the aid of paper, paste and scissors to dress the clothes pin in a costume suitable to that character.

Later the guests found the result of the work of their clever fingers, the bride and groom, the bridesmaid and best man, the mother of the bride and the clergyman and all the rest, arranged in proper position to form a bridal party, assisted by the hostess as the centerpiece of the attractively appointed refreshment table.

Many beautiful gifts were received by the bride-to-be, who is a popular teacher in the Logan street school in Los Angeles.

The guests included a number of friends from Los Angeles where Miss Appleton resided for a number of years before coming to Glendale, and Mrs. Norman Williams and Mrs. Goodhue, of Eagle Rock, and the honoree, Miss Appleton and her mother, Mrs. F. G. Appleton.

The wedding will take place August 1, at St. James church, Los Angeles.

Play Mah Jongg

A Mah Jongg party given last Saturday at the J. W. Walton home, 517 North Kenwood street, proved of unusual interest to the guests inasmuch as the announcement of the contest of Mrs. Louise Walton Stafford to L. O. Newsome of Houston, Texas was made known at this time.

The rooms of the Walton home were artistically decorated with pink roses and greenery. The table decorations were artistically carried out in the pink color scheme with dainty place cards in the rose design. In the petals of which were concealed the names of Miss Stafford and Mr. Newsome. The wedding will take place some time in November.

The afternoon was devoted to playing Mah Jongg at which Mrs. Paul Webb was awarded first prize. Most of the guests present were Pomona College friends of Miss Stafford. The guests present were Miss Margaret Jones, Mrs. A. R. McGregor, Mrs. Carl Cowdery of Whittier, Mrs. Paul Webb, Mrs. J. E. Sargent, Miss Eleanor Sargent, Miss Katherine Sargent, Mrs. W. H. Jones, Miss Ruth Walton and Mrs. J. W. Walton all of Glendale, Mrs. Frederick Miller and Miss Eloise Hicks of Los Angeles and Mrs. Wilfred Michael of Laverne.

Receives Choir

Lookabaugh, 367 West Wilson avenue, complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butterfield, who have recently arrived in Glendale, following their marriage in Eugene, Oregon. The evening was spent with music and cleverly arranged games under the direction of Mrs. Harriet Peart. Delicious home made cake and ice cream were served under the direction of the refreshment committee, comprised of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Butterfield and Miss Eloise Lookabaugh. The honorees were the surprised recipients of a beautiful electric grill, a gift from the choir. Twenty eight were present.

Sneak Thieves Active During Week-end, Reports to Police Reveal

One burglary and several attempted burglaries were reported over the week-end to the Glendale police department.

A jimmy is believed to have been applied to a rear window at 245 Stocker street Saturday night to gain entrance to the home of S. F. Gibbons. The loot included a woman's Waltham wrist watch, a railway special Ruber-Hamden watch, a woman's ring set with two amethysts and three pearls and about $2 in Canadian currency.

Footprints in the yard and signs of an attempt having been made to force a window open at 659 North Central avenue led William Hopkins yesterday morning to believe that an attempt had been made to burglarize it during the night.

Patrolman William Schilling about 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning reported that a window had been broken in the filling station at the corner of Magnolia avenue and Brand boulevard.

MEXICALI WAITS OBREGON RULING

Police Patrol Border Town As Mayor and Council Hold City Hall

CALEXICO, Cal., July 16.—A decision from President Obregon on the issues involved was anxiously awaited in Mexicali, capital of Lower California, just across the Mexican line from here, today, as a means of ending the political feud which to date has resulted in three deaths and the wounding of more than a score.

Mayor Juan Loera and the Mexicali city officials were still barricaded in the city hall today, hundreds of heavily armed policemen patrolling the streets and under orders to arrest them for sedition if they attempt to leave the city hall.

The Mexicali city hall is well marked by bullet holes as mute evidence of the battle that raged last Saturday night between city and federal forces. Congressman Ricardo Covarrubias had just left the city hall after addressing the city council when the battle started. He was shot through the leg. He is in hiding and it is feared federal forces will shoot him on sight as revenge for the death of their men in the battle. Covarrubias, who has been supporting the city officials in their fight against Governor Lugo, acted as president of the Mexican congress at its last session.

Dr. Llywolat Johns, a Chicago dentist, will be located in the C. L. Reinhard building at Montrose within the next thirty days, he announced this morning before leaving for the eastern city to close out his business affairs and bring his family west.

Dr. Johns has leased part of his room to a physician and surgeon, and is under the impression that he will complete a dental service. He also intends to build in Montrose, having purchased a residence lot for the purpose, but until his home is ready he will live in Glendale.

Dr. Johns has been residing at the H. P. Goldstrass home, 300 North Orange street, Glendale, for several months, while preparing for the California state dental examination. He was one of thirty-eight out of eighty to pass. He has had ten years of practice, and is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

WORK OF CHURCH THEME OF STUDY

Pastors and Elders Meet in Retreat at Santa Monica Last Saturday

The board of elders, together with the pastors of the Glendale Presbyterian church, spent all day last Saturday in the quarterly retreat. They met in the parlors of the new First Presbyterian church of Santa Monica. Beside the pastors, eighteen elders were present and the entire day was spent in prayer and conference with reference to the work and plans of the church.

The morning session was opened with a gripping spiritual message by Dr. William E. Allison of Occidental college, in which he sounded the keynote of the entire day. Dr. Harry L. Boyd, an elder in the First Presbyterian church of Hollywood, spoke at the opening hour of the afternoon session. He brought a great message from the book and also told of conditions on the mission field in China where he spent many years as a successful missionary physician.

These retreats have been so helpful that they have become an established part of the work of the local church. A number of the elders' wives and families made the journey to Santa Monica and spent the day on the beach while the conference was in session.

MARKETS

NEW YORK, July 16.—The stock market closed steady today. The complete absence of liquidation caused some short covering towards the close which rallied prices.

Stewart Warner rose over 1 point to 83 1/2. American Sugar at 33 1/2 and American Beet Sugar at 11 1/4, improved fractionally, a response to the stiffening sugar prices. The rails showed little change. Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular. Sales today: Stocks, $25,500 shares; bonds, $6,262,000.

In Grain Markets
CHICAGO, July 16.—Hitting new levels for the year and the ante-war period wheat prices continued their skidding here today, with closing prices well under Saturday's last. The weakness made itself felt in other grains, with the result that corn and oats also were under heavy pressure at the end of trading. Heavy runs of spot corn were reported. Wheat closed 3/4c to 1 1/4c lower. Corn finished unchanged to 1/2c off. Oats were 1/4c to 3/4c lower. Trading in provisions was very dull.

A number of the young girls are forming a branch of the Girl Scouts, under the direction of Mrs. Jessie Hanson of Piedmont avenue.

Condition Improves
Friends of Mrs. Scherb's will be glad to learn of her improved condition, also to know she will leave the Research Hospital in about two weeks to return to her home.

Mrs. Louise Erwin sold the James Carter place to Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer of Redondo. The property, which consists of house and lot, is situated on Michigan avenue, opposite the old adobe church.

The Peck family of Michigan avenue intend moving to Los Angeles to reside.

Mrs. C. O. Miller of Montrose avenue attended a pre-nuptial shower given in honor of her niece, Miss Gladwyn Miller of Huntington Park.

The affair was held at the home of Mrs. Hultquist, who is an aunt of the bride-to-be. Many beautiful gifts were presented to Miss Miller by the guests, nine of whom were brides of 1923. The wedding will take place in the Methodist Episcopal church of Huntington Park.

SENDS SPECIMEN OF ART PRINTING

Miss Eva Daniels Proud of Booklet Turned Out by Brother's Plant

Miss Eva Daniels, of 324 West Colorado street, now visiting in the east, writes from Boston, Mass. to A. T. Cowan, proprietor of The Glendale Evening News, enclosing a copy of a booklet entitled "Vose Reminiscences," produced by the Daniels Printing company, of that city, which company is headed by one of her three brothers.

"In visiting my brother's office," Miss Daniels' letter runs, "I came across this booklet which he had printed; and realizing you are interested in a good printing job, I am taking the liberty of mailing a sample."

"With kindest regards to The News and its workers,"

"Sincerely,"

"EVA DANIELS."

The book is a beautiful two-color job, printed on highly-embossed paper and bound in a cover of brown morocco, with the title embossed in gold. The inside pages are given over to a brief chronicle of the origin and development of the Vose Piano company, from 1790 to the present time, printed in 14-point Caslon type; and interspersed with the printed chronicle are numerous excellent reproductions of etchings, woodcuts, engravings and photographs.

Miss Daniels' other two brothers are the proprietors of a printing establishment in Los Angeles.

HUNGARY ASKING LONG TERM LOAN

Nation's Economic Life Is to Be Stabilized by Foreign Assistance

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service
LONDON, July 16.—Hungary's desperate financial situation can only be relieved by a long term loan that will give the nation time to reconstruct its economic life and balance its budget, according to Mr. Kallay, Minister of Finance in the Hungarian Cabinet.

M. Kallay recently was in London, in company with Count Bethlen, the Hungarian Prime Minister. The object of their visit was to discuss the state of affairs in Hungary with British officials and financiers. Their coming to London followed a meeting of the reparations commission in Paris before which the Hungarian statesmen laid their case.

"We need a long-term loan as the basis of our programme of reconstruction," said M. Kallay in an interview. "We have laid a plan which we have worked out before the Reparations Commission and are hopeful that this plan, or one drafted along similar lines, will be adopted."

To Stabilize Money
"One of our biggest problems is to stabilize the crown and end the necessity of printing paper money. So long as we are forced to resort to the printing press to meet our obligations it will be impossible for us to balance our budget or stabilize our currency."

If we can obtain a loan that will enable us to care for our budget deficit for a few years it will give an opportunity for the development of our economic resources along lines that should result in stabilized industry and financial solvency for Hungary."

It is understood that the Hungarian statesmen have proposed to the Reparations Commission a loan of 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 gold crowns and the second long-term loan of from 550,000,000 to 650,000,000 gold crowns.

Guarantees Lacking
One of the chief difficulties in the way of obtaining outside assistance for Hungary is the requirement of the Treaty of Trianon that the cost of reparations shall be a first charge against the nation's assets and revenues. Since foreign capital can hardly be induced to invest in Hungarian loans unless adequate guarantees are offered, it is understood that the proposal has been put forward that the Reparations Commission agree to certain derogations from these charges so that the nation's assets may be pledged to guarantee loans.

The Hungarian plan, as laid before the Reparations Commission, is also understood to set forth certain banking and administrative reforms calculated to contribute to financial stability. Hungary, also, according to M. Kallay, is willing to submit to a certain degree of supervision of her financial affairs by the finance committee of the League of Nations, under a scheme similar to that which is now being worked out for Austria.

"As yet we have made no approach to any country with regard to raising a loan," said M. Kallay. "We have talked with financiers in Paris and in London, explaining the situation and discussing the possibility of obtaining a loan. As the matter now stands it is in the hands of the Reparations Commission."

"If we are able to get a loan our chief object then will be to increase production in Hungary and to relieve our unfavorable trade balance by increasing our exports. The loan would take away from us important producing regions that once supplied us with iron, wood, salt and other raw materials. At present, although we have factories for the manufacture of our agricultural machinery, we are forced to import the necessary metals, and the cost of this importation, in view of the decline in the exchange rate of the crown, makes it almost prohibitive.

"Our textile industry also is one that needs developing. At present textiles comprise nearly one-third of our total imports. As our industrial production increases we also will require a larger supply of coal to meet the needs of our factories."

"Industrial conditions in Hungary have improved considerably since the war. Agriculture especially has gained in strength and importance. Development along all lines, however, has been greatly hindered by lack of capital."

Asked regarding the fate of Bolshevism in Hungary, M. Kallay replied: "The Bolshevist movement has now been stamped out. I think it is like the measles—you may have it once, but hardly a second time."

Prohibition, in M. Kallay's opinion, has little chance of success in Hungary, because of the importance of the wine industry there. Adoption of prohibition, he believes, would result in financial hardship to vast numbers of the Hungarian people.

European foreign population in China is about 100,000.

Claims 12-Hour Day Cause of Discontent

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 16.—When we take 70,000 workers and force them to labor in twelve-hour stretches in the steel mills, we, as a nation, are carrying an excess baggage," asserted Rev. Harold Cooper, pastor of Mayflower Congregational Church here. "Until the twelve-hour day is ended we shall be carrying an extra burden of discontent among those 70,000," Rev. Cooper said.

"Industrial conditions in Hungary have improved considerably since the war. Agriculture especially has gained in strength and importance. Development along all lines, however, has been greatly hindered by lack of capital."

Asked regarding the fate of Bolshevism in Hungary, M. Kallay replied: "The Bolshevist movement has now been stamped out. I think it is like the measles—you may have it once, but hardly a second time."

SPORTS

This Is Bobby Jones' Year

The WORLD OVER

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Is an upheaval due in the Pacific Coast League after the close of the 1923 playing season?

This is a question that is interesting many followers of baseball in the far west owing to the internal dissensions and bitterness that exist in a factional struggle that is being quietly waged under cover.

The belief generally is held that no open warfare will be declared until the close of the season for reason of policy. Gate receipts would all go to smash if they were and controversies should be aired at the present time. When all the money is in then will be time to call names and do all the dirty work.

It is possible that few quarrels have aroused more venom than that which exists in the Pacific Coast League. It is very doubtful if President William H. McCarthy will continue at the head of the organization after his term expires. It is not at all likely that he wants the job. He has an independent income and fortune and merely accepted the leadership of the league for the reason that he hoped to do his part in promoting and keeping clean the great national sport.

One thing is certain. As long as McCarthy has anything to say he will fight for what he considers the right thing and fight to the last ditch. He has the confidence of the baseball public who will trail with him in whatever move he makes with the assurance that McCarthy will not betray it.

Just how soon after the curtain has rung down on the 1923 season the fireworks will be let off and in just what manner, no one ventures to say. To be sure, there is a universal desire, for the good of the league and the game, that all differences will be settled, and there still is a possibility that cooler judgment will have sway, but, as things stand now, it is not likely. There must be a change in the temper of the men who are at odds. There is too much gall and bitterness.

Should one or more of the present clubs in the league get out of it, there are a number of cities only too anxious to take their places, and there would not likely be any danger of the annihilation of the Pacific Coast League organization.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The date for the formal opening of the new home of the San Diego Yacht Club at Coronado Tent City has been set for Sunday, August 4. This will be one of the most complete plants of its kind on the Pacific coast and there has been a world of interest taken in this phase of outdoor recreation. With its increased facilities, the club has been increased so as to admit forty additional new members.

Here is an editorial from the New York Sun which should get under the cuticle of any community which pretends to have any vision. There is no ignoring the fact that the army of outdoor sports devotees is growing in amazing fashion. Real estate is never likely to be cheaper than it is today in a growing and progressing community.

"The need of more public golf links in New York is acute. Van Cortlandt park does not supply space to anywhere near the total of would-be golfers. There are not many other public links. The result has been that aside from the comparatively few lucky ones who rush at dawn to Van Cortlandt, then stand in line most of the day to get a round or two, New York's golfers play on private or club reservations. Unquestionably more golf links are needed to the attraction of New York life.

"But at least the golfers have one place to play. The tennis adherents have no place. There are one or two public tennis courts, of course, but the city must have more play space. Acquisition of land in the outlying sections of the city for golf and tennis, even for baseball and other sports, would benefit the city, its population and the land surrounding that take over."

The day now has arrived when the community is hopelessly out of it when it is without these features. The homeseeker wants either tennis or golf, and between them they occupy the attention of the entire family, parents and children. Every day this is becoming more and more a fact. Golf and tennis are the two fastest growing games, and it has been estimated that, in another two generations, the number now playing will be doubled.

It may be truly said that a city or town which does not afford room for tennis and golf is as desirable to the average homeseeker as one without a school. In their respective spheres, one is as important as the other and neither can be overlooked.

By JACK KEENE

No ball player ever liked his hits better than did Lord. One day Brainer hit a ball against the center field fence, but the fielder by a great run, got back and picked it off the wall. Lord was sore. As the two teams exchanged sides he said to the man who had made the catch:

"Why don't you stand outside the park and be done with it?"

"I got it, didn't I?" was the grim answer of the outfielder.

"Yes," come back Lord, "and some day you'll be late for supper getting that far away from the plate."

That Dave Shade, the recently crowned welterweight champion of New York state, is not a real welterweight at all is the assertion of George Ward, a Jersey welter, who has challenged Shade. The two have met a number of times. Ward winning one bout when Shade stopped in the eighth round, saying that he had injured his arm. Ward declares that in their bout at Boston Shade came in at 153½ pounds. He calls attention to the fact that Shade is growing rapidly and soon will no longer be able to make a pretense of being a welterweight.

There passed into the great beyond recently Sammy Kelly, internationally known in the early nineties as one of the best American featherweight boxers and of late years an associate in business with Charles Stoneham, president of the Giants.

Kelly died of pneumonia following a cold.

Sammy Kelly, lived as he had fought in the ring, clean cut, respected, and generous to a fault. The ring can boast of no finer type of man.

In the ring his greatest triumph came when he traveled all the way to England and knocked out Billy Plimmer in twenty rounds at Buckingham on March 9, 1897.

Plimmer had just met George Dixon and was looked upon as unbeatable in his own country. After defeating Plimmer Kelly went to France, where he was lionized.

In all his career Kelly lost only one decision, which went to Marty McEue, afterwards assemblyman at Albany, in ten rounds in Harlem on October 29, 1894.

Among the best known of those defeated by Kelly were Solly Smith, conqueror of Dixon; Joe Bernstein, Austin Rice and Patsy Broderick. Kelly boxed Jimmy Barry a twenty-round draw on January 31, 1897.

At the request of his mother, Kelly retired from the ring after winning from Broderick on November 6, 1897.

Kelly was the man who brought Gene Tunney to the front. When the present American light heavyweight champion returned from the war Kelly became his manager. Business in connection with Stoneham's race track interests in Havana made it necessary for Kelly to turn Tunney over to Billy Roche, and the old time referee was behind Tunney in his first seven fights, all of which were won with knockouts. Stoneham named one of his yearlings after Sammy Kelly two seasons ago.

Gordon C. Locke of Denison, Ia., 1922 all-American quarterback of Iowa for the 1922-23 school year, was awarded the Big Ten medal by the faculty for the greatest scholastic and athletic proficiency in the graduation class. Aubrey Devine, 1921 all-American quarterback, won the honor last year.

THE FANNING BEE HIVE

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Relieved of their final college duties, quite a flock of embryo baseball stars are joining the faster minor and major leagues for tryouts.

Among these is Theodore Lyons. Around Waco, Tex., where many good ballplayers have first blossomed forth, the fans will follow Lyons "has the makings."

Lyons hurled for Baylor university in Waco. His pitching carried the college nine to a conference championship in those parts. His main asset seems to be control. In ten complete games he issued but one pass.

He has another asset which counts a bit these days. He can hit. He bats from either side of the plate and drives them far and wide—in college circles.

Disappointed over the way his youngsters are acting these days Gleason may give this college kid a thorough once over.

L. A. LEGION IS WINNER, 7 TO 2

Locals Fail to Provide Their Best Stuff; Next Game With Lankershim

Glendale lost yesterday afternoon to Los Angeles Post No. 8, the American Legion, by the decisive score of 7 to 2, on the home grounds at Park avenue and San Fernando road, before a large crowd.

It was an independent game and Manager Walt Heidler sent a patched line-up against the Legionnaires. Planners being absent from second base and "Lefty" Harrison from first.

"Slim" Harris started on the mound for the locals but was relieved in the seventh by "Wes" Agoston, last year's star hurler. Hopper, Post No. 8's first sacker, was the batting feature of the game, lining out a home run, a three base hit and a single, in five trips to the plate.

Meet Lankershim Next

All in all, Glendale didn't put up the brand of baseball expected, and the fans were forced to postpone their enthusiasm until next Sunday afternoon, when the locals taken on Lankershim again, in the play-off of the protested game one week ago.

According to Manager Walt, this game should be the best exhibition of baseball ever staged in Glendale, as both teams have the goods and are fighting like wildcats for the Valley League pennant.

"For another thing," says Walt, "neither team is any too friendly. Glendale still remembers that defeat they got pushed at them at Lankershim, in the first round, when the score was 3 to 2. And Lankershim recalls vividly how their win a week ago was no go, and has to be played over again at their expense. So the sparks surely ought to fly thick and fast this coming Sunday afternoon, on the home grounds. Anyone who misses this fight will miss the biggest sporting event ever pulled off in Glendale."

TAGGING ALL BASES

Realizing the ambition of every ball player, Barney Friberg hit a home run in the tenth with the bases full, and the Chicago Cubs defeated the Giants, 9 to 5.

A single by Grimm in the ninth that scored one ally helped the Pirates beat Brooklyn, 3 to 2.

Harvard Student Wins Open Championship Title in Grilling Contest

INWOOD, N. J., July 16.—Bobby Jones is open champion golfer of America. Late yesterday, coming to the eighteenth hole all square with Bobby Cruikshank, the four little Scot pro, after one of the most desperate and grilling matches ever played, Jones achieved his life ambition, broke the seemingly interminable run of hard luck, and while his gallant foe fought to the finish, dropped a short putt and won.

An instant later, engulfed in the rush of 10,000 of the most frantic and unruly fans that ever witnessed a golf match, he disappeared to be lifted an instant later on the shoulders of a milling mob, and borne in triumph to the clubhouse.

Jones triumph was perhaps the most popular ever accomplished. It was the fourth time that Jones has been within striking distance of the open championship and it came in a dramatic finish which eclipsed that of yesterday when Cruikshank tied him and seemingly snatched his long-delayed honors from him.

He Stages Comeback

"On the same hole where Saturday he collapsed and where an hour later Cruikshank made his historic approach shot Jones turned the tables and made a shot which almost duplicated that of Cruikshank Saturday.

They had battled each other all the way to exhaustion, while an unruly and restless mob swarmed after them, ran over them, violated every rule of golf etiquette.

Robert T. Jones, Jr., Atlanta: Out 445 454 344-37 In 552 455 451-39-76

Robert A. Cruikshank, Shakamak-on Club, Westfield, N. J.: Out 584 443 445-47-37 In 553 444 546-41-78

Years ago the snappiest comedians on the stage delighted in pulling a joke that went something like this:

"Why is a goat nearly?"

"Because he's all butt."

Whereupon the assembled multitude—or all those in the orchestra circle—would just laugh and laugh and laugh. My, how they'd laugh.

But said jokes would never get a laugh out of Bobby Jones, demon golfer of Atlanta and other parts. For this young man has been "nearly" in the championship realm for so long he's become weary of the place. And now he is the title holder.

Into Prominence Early

Jones broke into prominence several years ago when a mere stripling in short trousers. Four years ago when only 18 years of age he shook the golf world by finishing amateur runner-up in the national amateur tourney to S. Davidson Herron, whose victory alone was a big sensation. The next year he reached the semi-final, only to lose in the final.

In 1921 Willie Hunter halted Jones just before the semi-final round.

Then last year Jones almost came into his own. He plunged through the national open and ended within one stroke of Gene Sarazen, the victor.

Bobby invaded England with the other American stars in 1921, but lost out in the fourth round to the brilliant Allan Graham.

Provides Mystery

Just why Bobby never has, until now, won a national title still remains a mystery to close students of the game. He has the poise, the confidence and form. No less a personage than Harry Vardon, British golf star, has said that Robert is probably the greatest of all stylish American golfers. Despite all of these assets he has failed to cop until now.

He has won a score of sectional titles. He has won the Southern title three or four times and each

RUTH IS HITTING WAY INTO LEAD

Babe Is Only Two Behind Cy
Williams; Record Not In Danger

By ARTHUR STRUWE
For International News Service

NEW YORK, July 16.—Babe Ruth, with every indication pointing to his regaining home run laurels taken away from him last year by Rogers Hornsby, slugging Cardinal, is seeking another honor this year. Babe wants to lead the league in hitting and the way he has been hitting the ball lately, it looks as if this ambition would be realized.

Not only in knocking out home runs but in making ordinary hits, Babe has been coming along like a house afire.

Today he is only two home runs behind Cy Williams, Philadelphia outfielder, who is topping the league with twenty-three. Babe has twenty-one to his credit. Last year this date Babe had fourteen but was out of the game for thirty days at the beginning of the season because of his suspension by Judge Landis. Hornsby topped the home run hitters last year with forty-two. Babe finished fourth with thirty-five. Ken Williams with thirty-nine and Tilly Walker, with thirty-seven, finished ahead of him.

With the season more than half over, it is not likely that Babe will surpass his record of fifty-nine made two years ago, but he has a chance to top Hornsby's mark of last year.

But it is in hitting that Babe is shining this year. According to the statistics the Babe is hitting better now than any other player in the leagues. Today he is only sixteen points behind Harry Heilmann, the Detroit outfielder, who is leading the American league with a percentage of .390. A week ago Heilmann had a percentage of .407 and Babe was in fourth place with a percentage of .365. In the past week Babe has jumped from fourth to second place and has gained twenty-five points on Heilmann.

Thousands See Flyers Die in Plane Crash

VENICE, July 16.—Before a crowd of 40,000 people Herbert Wilson, 35, and Cecil Coats, 27, widely known Southern California aviators, plunged to their death in the Pacific ocean yesterday afternoon, being recovered from the wreckage an hour later by bathers. Speed boats and fishing launches went to their rescue, but failed to find the bodies. According to Al Wilson, a brother of one of the dead flyers, the plane had been pronounced unsafe.

Bereaved Cat Adopts Little Orphan Chick

SACRAMENTO, July 16.—Bereft of her kittens, Cleopatra, a house cat belonging to L. C. Cranger, is today mothering an orphan chick.

Having figuratively taken the baby chick under her wing, Cleopatra is foraging for her adopted infant with the same satisfaction which characterized her care of her kittens.

THE GLENDALE

"Soul of the Beast," now showing at the Glendale Theatre, is a Thomas H. Ince production, featuring Madge Bellamy, directed by John Griffith Wray and released by Metro.

Miss Bellamy, and "Oscar," the elephant, head an exceptionally strong cast, comprising among others Cullen Landis and Noah Berry. The story was written by C. Gardner Sullivan, that veteran screen writer.

"Soul of the Beast" tells the story of the adventures of a little Cinderella of the circus, who has

Federal Jurist Dies At Arrowhead Camp

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—Southern California today is mourning the death of Federal Judge Oscar A. Trippet, his passing at an Arrowhead Lake camp yesterday noon being a shock to friends and relatives. He was 67 years old, having been born in Gibson county, Ind., March 6, 1855. He ascended to the federal bench during President Wilson's first term after practicing law for thirty-five years.

Judge Trippet's name has been associated with some of the greatest legal cases in Southern California, having had offices in San Diego and Los Angeles. He was well known in lodge, social and political circles. The body is at the Woodbury Mortuary in San Bernardino, awaiting arrangements for the funeral.

Northern Lines Make New Eastern Schedule

PORTLAND, Ore., July 16.—Effective July 23, transcontinental passenger train schedules on all railway lines between Portland, Puget Sound and Chicago will be slashed two hours, according to word received by local railroad offices.

Action follows the recent decision of the Union Pacific to compromise on Portland's request for a 68-hour running time between Portland and Chicago by giving a 70-hour schedule.

The plea for a 68-hour schedule was made because the Union Pacific already had a similar transcontinental operating time between Chicago and California terminals.

Transfer Ex-Soldiers To Federal Hospital

SACRAMENTO, July 16.—Approximately 400 wounded and disabled veterans of the World War, who have been cared for by the state under a joint agreement with the federal government, have been released from state hospitals during past month, according to announcement by Director E. G. Twogood of the state department of institutions.

The majority of the former service men were transferred to the new federal hospital at Palo Alto. Twogood said, although a good proportion of the men were discharged and will resume their work where it was cut off by the war.

Priest Would Propose For Bashful Swains

SPRINGFIELD, July 16.—With the small number of marriages that have taken place in his parish this month, and with very few in prospect, the Rev. John A. O'Connell, pastor of Immaculate Conception church in the West Side, scored the timidity of the youths in his charge and urged them to seek the girl they had planned to make their wife.

Father O'Connell volunteered to propose for any youth in the parish who lacked the courage to do so himself.

OPEN HUGE AREA FOR HOMESTEADS

Thousands of Acres In West
Available; Preference to All Veterans

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Thousands of acres of land throughout the west are now available for homesteading, according to the Department of the Interior.

A ninety-one day preferment period is granted to any enlisted man or commissioned officer having served over ninety days in the military or naval forces during the Spanish-American, Philippine Insurrection, Civil, Mexican or World War.

Each applicant will be entitled—provided that since his discharge he has been disloyal to the government—to not less than 160 acres of land and more, dependent upon the usage to which the land shall be put.

3-Year Period

Under the Homestead acts, persons entering homestead tracts must reside at least seven months of each year over a period of three years upon his plot. Veterans are permitted to deduct time spent in military service from the three-year limit. For example, a man having spent two years (which is the maximum deduction allowed) in the service, has to remain for a period of seven months upon his homestead, during which time he must have put under cultivation one-sixteenth of his acreage and prove erection of a habitable house.

In the case of a soldier or sailor discharged by reason of disability credit will be given as if a whole enlistment has been served, but he does not receive patent to the land until he has resided for one year upon such land and fulfilled cultivation and housing requirements.

The family of a veteran residing upon homestead land, and he himself absent, will receive patent as though he, personally, had resided thereon.

In the event a soldier or sailor makes an entry or files a declaratory statement, and should die before perfection of same, the right to claim military credit shall pass to his heirs.

Residence and cultivation must be taken up within six months after entry or a declaratory statement has been made.

Lands in Utah
About 400,000 acres in Emery and Grand counties, Salt Lake City land district, Utah, are now available. This land is mountainous and cut by ravines. A proper and cut by ravines. A proper waiver must be filed by successful applicants to coal withdrawals and petroleum withdrawals.

The following lands are open for general and preferential applications, totaling over 500,000 acres of land:

California lands reported rough and mountainous, covered with timber and undergrowth. Colorado, rough and mountainous, chiefly valuable for minerals.

Idaho, rolling and broken, with dense growth of sage and native grasses.

Montana, rolling and covered with a good growth of grass, chiefly valuable for grazing.

Nevada, rolling and level, desert in character, with sparse vegetation.

Wyoming, rolling and covered with a scant growth of native grasses.

Persons who desire to make homestead entry should first decide where they wish to locate, then go or write to the local land office of the district in which the lands are located and obtain diagrams of vacant land and its character. Then make application for entry thereupon.

Sorority Girls Ban Use of Soothing Weed

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—Cigarettes were out of style today for college girls.

This readjustment of the mode came as a result of a resolution adopted here by the national convention of the Phi Epsilon sorority. Use of tobacco in all forms by co-eds was vigorously opposed in the resolution.

FRENCH IMPROVE IN BOXING GAME

Game Only Twenty Years
Old But Three Champions
Have Been Produced

By HARRY R. FLORY
For International News Service

PARIS, July 16.—The manly art of boxing is only twenty years old in France, yet in those twenty years France has claimed three world's champions—Carpentier, Siki, and last, but not least, Criqui.

That great American champion, John L. Sullivan, and Charley Mitchell, England's champion, introduced boxing into France on March 10, 1888, in a fight which lasted thirty-nine rounds and ended in a draw. However, there was only a handful of spectators, as the fight was held secretly at Neuilly, a Paris suburb, and ended in the participants and all the spectators being arrested. Sullivan and Mitchell escaped after paying 4000 francs fine each, but public boxing exhibitions were forbidden in France for twelve years thereafter.

In place of the English style of boxing the French had their own style of combat, somewhat similar except that feet were used as well as hands. Surprisingly, however, several specialists of this type practiced the English style as well, and by 1906 about thirty French boxers were fairly proficient in the art.

Knockouts Banned

Finally a committee of sportsmen obtained governmental permission to stage an exhibition of "boxe Anglaise," provided no blood was shed and there was no knockout.

Consequently on December 24, 1909, George Goodwin fought Ted Cantrell before a howling mob of spectators who filled the Hippodrome. Goodwin was "right" and couldn't be restrained. In the second round he put Cantrell "hors de combat."

BEAUTY SHOP IS ONE OF FEATURES

H. S. Webb & Company Has Mrs. Harriett Hillings Satisfying Patrons

One of the best reasons for the popularity and success of the new store of H. S. Webb & Company, located on North Brand boulevard, is Mrs. Harriett Hillings, manager of the store's beauty shop.

Although opened but a month this department of the new store has been most successful and is attracting many new patrons to the North Brand shopping center.

Dr. Hillings, who is justly deserving of credit for the shop's success, possesses a most delightful personality as well as splendid training in her line.

A French woman, Dr. Hillings received her training in London, England, and Europe where she thoroughly mastered the Russian system of beauty culture. She has been in the United States ten years and during that time has established her methods in shops in various states.

Likes Glendale
"But, most of all, I love Glendale," says Dr. Hillings with a pleasing smile. "I have traveled much but have never found any place where I was as delighted with my surroundings and my work as right here in the Webb store in Glendale."

Dr. Hillings has two assisting operators and the work is increasing with such rapidity that she is considering securing another helper.

Special attention is given to facial and scalp treatments and an expert operator handles the marcelling. In addition, a splendid line of hair goods is being introduced at cut rates, and upon the purchase of a set of the Della Nell preparations one facial treatment is given free.

Sermon Excerpts And News Notes From Local Churches

CHURCHES of Glendale held solemn, impressive services yesterday, attended by large crowds. Pastors preached on varied topics and special music was provided by soloists and choirs. Herewith are presented brief excerpts from sermons and, too, other church news:

Two New Departments At Broadway Methodist

At the Sunday school service yesterday morning two additional branches of the work were organized—the home department, with Mrs. G. W. Grose, superintendent, and the cradle roll department, with Mrs. G. R. Truman, superintendent.

The sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. L. J. Millikan, who used for his subject "Gideon's Victory," Judges 6:12. The discourse showed very clearly and forcefully what a Christian may accomplish once he has the willingness to know, and the courage to do, God's will. He said in part:

"If you could view the scenes that really existed at that time you would find that the people comprising the church of God were in the most abject poverty. Having been prosperous for a time, it was their tendency, as is the case with people of the present day, to forget God. For that reason God had withheld His protection from them for seven years, and they had become scattered and oppressed, and many were forced to live in the caves of the earth. They felt the need of help, and began to cry unto God. In answer to their prayers God used Gideon to once more deliver them."

"Gideon was then only a farmer boy—the son of an idol worshiper. One would suppose his task was impossible, and it would have been had he relied on his own strength, or if he had refused to obey God's instructions. But being obedient to the voice of God, and possessing the courage to do His will, it was accomplished with surprising ease. What a sweet, holy comfort comes to us when we place ourselves in position to hear the voice of God! Every one who is the recipient of God's blessings should do as Gideon did—immediately erect an altar unto the Lord. I long with all my heart to see a family established in every Christian's home on earth. That church, or that Christian that can stand God's test is sure to succeed."

World Leaders Came From Common People

"Christ and the Common People" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Lutheran church. "The most important thing in the world is a common man, imperfect as he may be," asserted Dr. H. C. Funk. "The good Lord seems to prefer common people. He makes a great many of them. These are the men and women whom He uses to accomplish His high and holy purposes. 'Name over the benefactors of the world; men like Moses, Joseph, David and the twelve apostles and the Lord of Glory. Whence came they? Humanly speaking, from the common people. They came from the shepherds, the fisher folk and the carpenter's bench."

"I am glad I belong to the common crowd. There are so many more of us. I'd rather be where the common people are because I feel so much more comfortable among them. I prefer preaching to common people. We have heard of certain persons wanting to join a certain church because the aristocratic people, the high-toned folk being there."

Christ's Temptation Is Topic of Sermon

The temptation of Christ in the wilderness was the basis of the sermon yesterday at the Concordia Lutheran church. "This is a remarkable story!" exclaimed Rev. Henry O. Kringsel. "At first, we are at a loss what to make of it and we fail to see why Christ should be tempted by the devil. But there is a cause and a reason for everything."

"The reason why Jesus underwent this temptation was because He wanted to make amends for the failure of our first parents in paradise. Are we not told: 'For this purpose the Son of God was manifested that He might destroy the works of the devil?'"

"And what was the devil's first work? It was this: He tempted man to transgress God's commandment. And behold, he was successful. Thus sin was brought into the world with all its evil consequences. However, our divine Lord came to destroy the works of the devil."

"Scarcely had Jesus been baptized by John the Baptist and entered upon his public ministry when he encountered the 'old serpent in the wilderness' and subjected himself to the deceiver's temptations."

AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. E. E. Ford occupied the pulpit yesterday at both services of the First Baptist church. His morning subject was "Lost in God's Love" while his evening topic was "Reached or Reaching."

CENTRAL METHODIST

The Central Avenue Methodist church congregation yesterday heard two sermons by its pastor, Dr. V. Hunter Brink. "Christ and the Church" was the morning subject. The evening topic was "Our Purchased Salvation."

Dairen, Kwang-tung, is the port of what is being the greatest bean-raising country in the world, it is said.

MAN OF SORROWS IS PASTOR'S TOPIC

Rev. W. E. Edmonds Speaks On Christ's Sufferings And Reasons Why

At the Glendale Presbyterian church yesterday morning the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, spoke on "The Man of Sorrows," and chose Isaiah 53:3 as the text.

"Eighty times in the gospels the title 'Son of Man' is applied to the Christ by Himself," said the pastor. "It is a glorious name and full of hope for the human family, and is equivalent to having relationship with all men. Every man can find a response in His nature. God has had one Son without sin, but never one without sorrow. Next to a Saviour man needs a comforter. Christ has come not only to bear our burdens, but also to wipe our tears away."

"There is only one brow this crown of thorns will fit. His sorrow was multiplied and grief was His familiar acquaintance. His was the sorrow of loneliness. He was in the midst of men, yet quite alone. He was a perpetual stranger in this world. His own brethren, the religious leaders of His day, His own disciples, failed to appreciate His teachings. 'Men and women, no man ever suffered such shame as came upon our blessed Lord. He was made a curse for sin. He who knew no sin was made sin for us. Alone He stood before Pilate. Alone He stood before Herod with none to protect. They mocked Him. They spat in His face. They crowned Him with thorns. He carried His cross alone. It is well that we often look upon Him in His loneliness and shame."

Never Recognized
His was the sorrow of unrequited love. The great sin against Christ is that His love and sacrifice are never recognized. He is despised and rejected of men. This is His sorrow. He has been at the door of your heart and you hid, as it were, your faces from Him."

"His was a vicarious sorrow. Sin was responsible for all His suffering and sorrow. Had there been no sin He would never have known sadness or suffering, never felt pain or shed a tear. Why did this Christ man suffer? Why did He have sorrow? He was the world's only sinless one, yet the world's greatest sufferer. 'He saved others, Himself He cannot save. Surely He hath borne my grief and carried my sorrows. He was bruised for my iniquities. He was wounded for my transgressions.'"

"When I survey the wondrous cross, On which the Prince of glory died, My richest gains I count but loss, And pour contempt on all my pride."

Special Music Marks Methodist Services

A special musical program marked the services last night at the First Methodist church.

The church orchestra, which is under the direction of C. K. Aston of 207 North Orange street, played several selections including "Our National Hymn" by Brooks, "Fair Maid of Perth" by Widdell and "Intermezzo" from "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni and "The Angels' Serenade" by Braga. It also accompanied the chorus in singing "All Hail, Immanuel," and "The Lost Chord" by Sullivan.

A quartet number was "How long Wilt Thou Forget Me?" by Pfeiffer. This was sung by Miss Dorothy Peart of 801 South Maryland avenue, Miss Isabelle Isgrig of Burbank, Frank Butterfield of 1246 East California avenue, and Paul Butterfield of 431 Arden avenue. Mrs. L. Leeds of 108 East Elk street joined Miss Isgrig in singing as a duet Jerome's "Abide With Me."

A trio was composed of Dr. P. O. Lucas of 115 South Verdugo road, Glenn Dollberg of 206 1/2 West Broadway and Miss Isgrig. It sang "My Soul Doth Magnify" by Saint-Saens.

Musical Program at Presbyterian Church

A harp solo by Miss Marjorie Jean Bailey was a feature of the evening services last night at the Presbyterian church.

The organ prelude, which was played by Oscar F. Walton of Los Angeles, was Mozart's "Romanza."

The morning service also was notable for its music. The program was arranged by Mrs. Fannie M. Retts of 114 West Park avenue who was the soloist of the occasion. She sang "He Was Despised" from Handel's "Messiah."

Other members of the quartet were Miss Elizabeth Mottern of 211 North Adams street, soprano; J. Malcomson Huddy of Pasadena, tenor; and Norman W. Kelch of Los Angeles, bass. They sang "O Taste and See" by Millier.

PROVIDE MUSIC

Mrs. Joseph Kitt of 449 Pioneer Drive, organist at St. Mark's Episcopal church, played as the opening and closing numbers at yesterday's services. Shubert's "Serenade" and Lemaire's "March Pontifical." The vested choir is directed by Mrs. Charles A. Parker of 212 North Orange street.

Christian Character World's Vital Need

"The Influence of Character" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Congregational church.

Organ selections by Miss Lilla E. Litch of 424 North Louise street included as the prelude "Meditation" by Bossi and for the close of the services Robert's "Postlude in F."

"Make a Joyful Noise" by Simper was the quartet number by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cavanah of 230 North Orange street; Myron Carmen of 363 Salem street and Mrs. W. Q. Widdows of 1246 Winchester street. Mr. and Mrs. Cavanah also sang "Hear Our Cry" by Saint-Saens as a duet.

"We long for the Kingdom of God," remarked Rev. C. M. Caldwell, "but it will never come while things are as they are at present. We can't have things as they are and have them as they ought to be. Changing the outside of things does not contribute to the vital element needed."

"Exiling Kaisers, shooting Caesars, dethroning Emperors, changing laws, amending constitutions, forming Leagues of Nations and establishing world courts will make little difference in the things that count for exalted living if we do not have the proper spirit to use effectively these new conditions and agencies."

"The greatest need of our age is a vital Christian character that is contagious in its influence. When this need is supplied, then we can make effective use of good laws, schools, churches, governments, institutions and organizations. The Kingdom of God cometh not with observation, but is within you."

Forgiveness, Secret Of World's Harmony

"Forgiveness is the fragrance of flowers when stepped upon!" This epigram was quoted by Rev. H. I. Rasmus, Jr., yesterday morning during his sermon at the First Methodist church.

"Jesus said: 'Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us,'" he continued, "and in these words we see the secret of harmonious fellowship in all the associations of men."

"Men need to put these words into practice in personal relationships, business relationships and national relationships. There never was a greater need for relationships. In these words is to be found the world's only hope of salvation."

"The hardest words to speak or write in any language are 'I am sorry.' And yet the second part of the words of forgiveness found in the Lord's Prayer condition the first. If we expect forgiveness before the name of grace, we must learn to grant forgiveness with free hearts."

"Could the world learn this lesson today, wars and rumors of war, industrial strife, social evils would surely pass away and the Kingdom of God would surely find its perfect consummation."

Importance of Second Coming Is Emphasized

The importance of the advent message was the basis of the sermon yesterday at the Gospel Tabernacle of the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

"The second personal return of the Lord from heaven is mentioned in the New Testament many more times than either baptism or the Lord's supper," asserted Rev. C. H. Christman. "In fact, this subject is mentioned more than 300 times."

"The practical effect of a belief in this doctrine of Christ's return was emphasized by Rev. Christman through the following Biblical quotations: 'He that hath this hope in Him purifieth himself even as He is pure.'"

"Be patient, therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord." "Let your moderation be known unto all men; the Lord is at hand." "Be sincere and without offense until the day of Christ."

"The acceptance of this doctrine will lead one to separate himself from all worldliness," he added, "and to walk with God as a true Christian."

Pomona Pastors Fill Local Pulpit Sunday

Clergymen from Pomona occupied the pulpit yesterday at the Central Christian church.

Rev. William Remfrey Hunt, who for thirty-three years was a leader of reconstruction in China, preached in the morning. The officiant at the evening service was Rev. Charles R. Hudson, pastor of the First Christian church of Pomona.

A solo was sung by Mrs. C. C. Stoler of 1239 Justin street in the morning. It was Browne's "Abide With Me."

The evening anthem was "Rejoice in the Lord" by Kottzman. A quartet sang Stenson's "Prayer Perfect." It was composed of Mrs. C. C. Stoler, Mrs. Floyd Mercer of 319 North Jackson street; Mrs. R. R. Jodon of 133 South Kenwood street and Mrs. C. J. Weidman of 119 North Kenwood street. Mrs. M. G. Musser of 600 West Colorado street is the church accompanist.

SAVANT TO MAKE CHARACTER TEST

Snap Judgment Questioned By Professor Seeking to End Controversy

CHICAGO, July 16.—Those who think they can instinctively and immediately judge personality or character will find an opponent in Dr. A. J. Snow, of Northwestern University. Dr. Snow intends to conduct a series of experiments to settle this controversy.

"Business men who engage employees are constantly judging personality," said Dr. Snow. "But they do it by instinct, which is an unscientific method, to say the least. Last spring thirty experts interviewed a list of prospective salesmen and graded them."

"Not even two of these men could agree on a single salesman," he said. "I intend to give personality tests to all members of sororities, fraternities and organized dormitories on the campus," he added. "These will include a series of twelve simple questions concerning the individuals of a group, which each person will answer to the best of his ability. Thus, in a sorority of twenty-five members, each member will grade the other twenty-four."

"Which member of your group has the greatest quality of leadership?" "Who is the least daunted by adversity?" "Who is the best mixer?" are among the questions. Footnotes define in detail such terms as "leadership," "adversity" and "mixer."

Wise Old Iowa Mule Dies, Aged 45 Years

BLANCHARD, Iowa, July 16.—"Jennie," believed to have been one of the "oldest mules in captivity," is dead, and Blanchard has lost another celebrity.

Jennie passed away at the hearty old age of 45 after more than forty years of work. Jennie, with her mate Jack, came to Blanchard 40 years ago and worked steadily for her owner, J. J. Bean, until a few years ago, when Jack died. For many years they drew the town hearse.

Both mules were credited with almost human reasoning powers. When Jennie was sent to town without a driver she sometimes threw a shoe. On such occasions instead of going to the hitching post, as was her wont, she would go to the blacksmith shop and hold up her foot to be shod. In flytime she would go to the grocery store and whinny until sprayed with fly killer. She had two pet tricks, one of tempting dogs close enough to kick them to smithereens and the other of running away at times when she felt heavy work was due.

Sugar Purchases Clue To Capture of Stills

MARTINE FERRY, Ohio, July 16.—Purchases of large quantities of sugar in the days of profiteering prices are unprofitable here. Police are using notes of excess purchases as clues to the location of stills.

From fifty to 100 pounds of sugar are required for each barrel of mash in the home distillery. To keep the average-sized still going 300 to 500 pounds of sugar must be purchased at a time. Delivery of such a quantity attracts attention, unless made at night.

A youngster with a small wagon supplied the clue that led officers to a cellar where a quantity of mash was being prepared for a trip into a still. The youngster was seen hauling sugar in twenty-five-pound lots home as often as twice a day. After a week the raid was made—with much success.

Connecticut Farmers Get Government Wool

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 16.—Farmers of New Haven county figure on new winter suits and overcoats of the best this year, having just concentrated 48,000 pounds of raw wool at six railroad points, where it is being packed for shipment to six different mills to be woven into cloth. Sheep raised under direction of the Federal Farm Bureau here furnished the wool and the bureau attaches supervised its transportation, arranged for weaving and will see that tailors give special rates for making clothes.

In addition to providing new clothes for the family, some of the farmers will pay their taxes out of the woolen cloth.

New York Legion Will Convene in September

ALBANY, July 16.—A tentative program for the American legion convention, department of New York, to be held at Saratoga Springs, September 13, 14 and 15, was outlined here at a recent meeting of war veterans.

An aerial circus, a monster athletic carnival, a military parade, a big military parade and a massed band concert are a few of the events which are being arranged to entertain the veterans when they gather at Saratoga. One day will be set aside for athletic events in which men who have won international laurels will participate.

Robert Wells, son of Mrs. H. Wells of 630 Salem street, had his tonsils and adenoids removed this morning at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Eastern Investors Seek To Share California's Industrial Prosperity

By GIL A. COWAN

WITHDRAWAL of capital for investment in Southern California is being felt in the eastern money marts! This is the news brought to Glendale by Orton W. Bartlett, vice president of the Bank of the Republic at Chicago, who has been the guest of the H. S. McCormacks here. His own institution has felt it, others are feeling the same strain on the purse strings, and reports from different points indicate that the whole world is centering its effort on this favored section of the United States. Mr. Bartlett's conclusion is no different from hundreds of other observers of the trend of affairs, except that he is in a position to participate financially in the profits being paid the farsighted who are preparing this country for its eventual millions of residents.

Sometimes believing we see things through colored glasses, it is well to turn to the newcomer or his view of things here, for comparative values may be more readily appreciated by one who has come here recently. At random we will take an arrival in Southern California during the month of June. Will Wade of Spirit River, Alberta, Canada, is the newcomer. Mr. Wade has just engaged in the insurance business in the Charles B. Guthrie office at 110 West Broadway. In his home country he occupied the position of notary, similar to a lawyer in this state, and served as president of the Spirit River Chamber of Commerce. The Peace river valley has enjoyed a great boom until recently, it taking the farmers two years to recover from the rash of wheat.

Everybody Coming Here. "The whole world is coming to California," says the newcomer, "for if its people cannot be residents here in person they are going to invest in this prosperous section which knows no 'hard times.'"

Mr. Wade declares the day is not far distant when the entire San Fernando valley and the hills sloping down to the plain will be nothing but homes, the most thickly populated place on the face of the globe being in Southern California. His deductions are not based on Chamber of Commerce literature, but from observation and mental capacity to see things as they actually are.

Every day we read of fortunes being made, yet there are those of sufficiently possessed of vision to engage in real estate transactions or industrial development, both of which are highly successful in Southern California. So, forgetting Mr. Wade and Spirit River for a minute, let us suggest two or three ways of making money which appeal to the writer as plausible, honest and worthy of consideration.

Capable, honest people may without hesitancy make investments for themselves and others, the upward trend of the real estate market almost insuring them against loss and certainly a wise investor will have the "odds" in his favor, at least much more so than gambling on the grain or stock markets.

Industry Booming. Financing of industries is another occupation which may be followed successfully while mortgage loans, banking and home building offer excellent opportunities today in Southern California. All of which should appeal to the moneyed man of sound judgment.

For those without capital high-salaried employment is offered in all of the trades and certain chances in industrial pursuits are to be found, but it is not wise for any factory hand or specialty worker to come to California without previous connection.

Small shopkeeping is overdone in this land of sunshine, not because there is not a demand for good stores, but because of the tendency of doing something else than "keeping shop." Practically all keen merchandising men with experience in coast conditions, as well as ready cash with which to discount their bills, are making a success in business, which is proof conclusive that success can be found here more readily than elsewhere.

And when Will Wade from Spirit River, or any of thousands of Canadians he assures us are coming here, enters the insurance business with experience, an income and the "boosting spirit" he evinces, there is no question but what California is going to satisfy him in every respect.

LIGHT IS PUZZLE TO GLENDALEANS

Searchlight's Beam Flickers Over City, Mystifying Many Residents

Residents of Glendale and motorists who were driving south through the city last night were puzzled by the sight of a searchlight playing over the southern part of town, and many guesses were made as to the origin of the long beam of light that stabbed the sky, flickering from side to side and paling the brightness of the stars as it flashed toward the zenith.

The source from which the beam of the searchlight sprang remains a mystery, and the difficulty of accurately locating its station gave rise to many varying conjectures. Some contended it came from some of the ships in Los Angeles harbor, while others maintained that it originated from a point much nearer than San Pedro, owing to the brightness and clearness shown by the light.

Provides Mystery. It was recalled that, a few weeks ago, twin searchlights, located somewhere to the southwest of the city, played in the sky for hours at a time, and it was supposed that last night's display had some connection with the lights of several weeks ago, but it was pointed out that the location of the two lights varied considerably from that of Sunday night.

Those who witnessed last night's display will be on the watch for it again tonight, and efforts will be made to locate the source of the light and to find out what it portends.

Fred Deal Is Home From Big Tree Park

The utilization of Sequoias as telephone poles was not considered by Fred Deal of 257 North Louise street, manager of the local district of the Southern California Telephone Company, last week while with his wife upon a week's vacation at the Red Wood Inn, California Big Tree National Park.

Mr. Deal reports a pleasant outing. He stated this morning that "The Basin" is full. When asked whether he meant fish, he replied, "No, people!" He added that most of them are from Central or Northern California. Although he found it a delightful place for a vacation, he said that he noticed the names of very few Southern California residents on the hotel register.

BEAUTY IS WINNER OF PRIZE High School Girl Gets Award Of $1200

Miss Dorothy Watson, Who Won First Prize in a Memorial Sculpture Contest

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 16.—Out here in the "great open spaces," but quite a way east of Shelby, they're boasting of the winning winner in captivity. Dorothy Watson is her name and winning prizes is her game. Beige Dorothy got her name in the headlines she was just one of the thousand and one other girls going to high school here.

Then someone had a happy idea and it was decided to pick a high school beauty.

The idea was happy to Dorothy because she stepped right out and won the prize. But perhaps it was not so happy to the others whose pulchritude was weighed in the balance with Dorothy's and found wanting.

Perhaps then as balm for the losers a memorial sculpture contest was started. A prize of $1,200 was put up.

So Dorothy put on her contest clothes and started to work. The judges decided that her "Buddies," typifying the supreme sacrifice in the great war, was in the same class as her beauty.

This time Dorothy walked away with $1,200 in cash. Now she's sighing for more worlds to conquer.

A special interest of Glendale's summer shopping season is the attractive July clearance sale, which opened this morning at Pendroy's department store at South Brand boulevard and Harvard street.

All sorts of worthwhile bargains were listed in the Pendroy double page advertisement in The Glendale Evening News Saturday afternoon and this morning when the popular department store opened many Glendale women were on hand to make purchases in the various departments.

This big sacrifice sale is being staged to make room for new fall merchandise arriving from eastern buyers, and the sale offerings include staple and modish merchandise of excellent quality. There will be fourteen days of this opportunity and according to indications the interest of Glendaleans will increase each day.

Many Bargains. Among the offerings are women's coats, suits, dresses, capes, evening gowns, sports wear and all summer millinery at half price; ribbons, laces, trimming and neckwear at sale prices.

These are only a few of the attractions in the big sale. In the basement, in the shoe department and in all the various departments on the three main floors opportunity to buy dependable merchandise at low prices, confronts one on every hand.

They stated that Ontario has now commenced a period of rapid expansion and has a population of 10,000 already.

EASTERN PEOPLE LAUD SOUTHLAND

J. H. Richardson Writes of Interest Manifested by Maine Folks

A. T. Cowan, owner and publisher of The Glendale Evening News, is the recipient of a letter from John H. Richardson, son of Mrs. Ella Richardson, of 317 North Brand boulevard, telling of a summer visit in Maine and of the enthusiasm of easterners over Southern California.

The letter written at Prono, Maine, July 8, reads: "Am spending part of my vacation way down east in Maine with friends, and they are trying to make me turn easterner, but they'll never do as I'm a native son of the best state in the Union."

"But I will say that Maine is quite a state and a fine place to spend a few months in the summer and the winters are great if one cares for the winter sports."

Easterner's Opinion. "But this is what I wanted to tell you about. I was talking with a man yesterday that has his business and home here in Maine. He has traveled a great deal and has spent the last eighteen winters in Southern California. I wanted to get his idea as to what he thought of Southern California because some easterners say that we Californians boost our state too much. And this is what he said, 'Southern California all the year around as soon as business permits.' Can you beat it? You can't!"

"No wonder Glendale grows and is going to keep on growing just as long as there is transportation west. I receive The Glendale News now and then and it surprises me to see how the place is growing. I won't be returning home until next summer so I'm planning on returning to a strange city even though I did live there before Brand and Broadway was the central part of town."

Complete Home Every 14 Minutes, Estimate

"A home is being completed in Los Angeles every 14 minutes throughout the twenty-four hours of the day," according to W. W. Christenbury, plastering contractor, who resides at 4040 Sequoia street in the Parkdale tract west of Glendale. He says the building business is so good that 8000 plasterers are kept busy.

Glendale Masons Rally Round Festive Board In Annual Beefsteak Dinner

PROMPTLY at 5 o'clock Saturday, at Verdugo park, 260 knives cut into juicy steaks that were held firmly by as many forks, while the Sciots' band proclaimed the glad tidings that the six lodges of Glendale Masons were gathered for their annual beefsteak "stag" dinner. Assembled around the festive board were delegations from Unity lodge, Glendale lodge, Unity chapter, Glendale commandery, Sciots and Shrine club, together with members of outside lodges.

In charge of the affair, which was given under the auspices of the Unity and Glendale lodges, was A. H. Lapham, Unity's entertainment committee chairman. Fred Deal, of Unity lodge, was chief steak-cook; S. S. Gilhuly, Unity lodge, was chief spud-cook; Francis J. W. Henry, Unity lodge, was song leader; Dan Flynn, Unity lodge, was in charge of sports; and among those present were Harmon Strong, master of Unity lodge; John Cleeland, master of Glendale lodge, U. D.; Fred A. Collins, high priest of Unity chapter; and D. Ripley Jackson, president of the Shrine club.

Dr. R. V. Hogue, eminent commander of the Glendale commandery, was unable to be present; and Arthur H. Dibbern, toparch of the Sciots, is in Atlanta, Ga., as a delegate to the national Elks' convention.

Plays On Ukulele. K. A. Lewis, a noted Hawaiian entertainer, delighted the feasters with several native vocal numbers, accompanying himself on the ukulele.

Among the field events was a baseball game between the American Legion and Unity Masons, which was won by the Unity nine in the tenth inning, by the score of 10 to 9. This was sweet revenge for last year's game, when the Legionnaires triumphed.

Charles B. Guthrie was manager of the Legion nine and general supervisor of the proceedings. Joe Wilson was captain of the Legionnaires and Hinch captain of the Unities. The score was 9 to 9 in the ninth but the teams had their picture taken at this point and it proved too much for the soldiers, who failed to rally and let the Unity boys slip in the needed run directly after playing was resumed.

Numerous other field events, coupled with a fine program of music and song, added the last touch to an affair which was voted a 100 per cent triumph from culinary, athletic, harmonic and social standpoints alike. And 7 o'clock, when the happy bunch disbanded, came all too soon. It had been an outstanding triumph of Glendale Masonry.

WELCOME GREETINGS WORLD VOYAGERS

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Peirce Return From Long Trip Through Europe

When Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Peirce arrived at their home at 317 West Vine street Saturday afternoon from a three and a half months' trip abroad, they experienced a happy homecoming, for relatives and neighbors had opened their home for them, and placed over the front door a huge sign bearing the greeting, "Welcome Home" and artistically decorated with blue and yellow flowers and ferns.

One of the greatest pleasures of the return for Mr. and Mrs. Peirce was greeting their daughter Patricia, who has been a guest during their absence of her two grandmothers, Mrs. John C. Waite of 429 West Lomita avenue and Mrs. Charles I. Peirce of 328 West Elk street.

Leaving Glendale three and a half months ago, Mr. and Mrs. Peirce traveled across the continent and took the Italian liner, Conte Russo, overseas. They journeyed abroad through Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, France and England.

An added feature of the greeting home Saturday was a dinner enjoyed by relatives and close friends of Mr. and Mrs. Peirce in the patio of their home.

Getting Right with the Signs

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

When Fanny Price and Lew Work started home from the movies the world, to both, was a wonderful place. Lew had told her of his promotion, and Fanny knew from the way he spoke there would be more to follow. With the full moon shining there was no question of street cars. They took the long way and walked. Fanny looked back, over the wrong shoulder and saw the moon. They stepped off the well-lighted business street and Lew took her arm.

"You know what the raise will mean?" he said.

"No, what? A new suit, maybe, or an automobile, or a—"

"Or a wife Fanny, a home! Oh, say, you know what I mean—I'm proposing, I am."

Fanny's eyes were demurely downcast. Something flitted across her vision, almost at her feet.

"Oh, Lew, what was that?"

"What is the difference, girl, are you going to make me say it all over? Listen, can't you tell me tonight you will marry me so we can start right in planning?"

The answer came at last. "Lew, dear, I have been planning it ever so long!"

When they reached Fanny's home she was wearing his ring and the world was more than ever, was a wonderful place. It was not until he had left and she lighted the living room that a doubt came. She hunted for the newspaper where her father had left it, read the date line for assurance, and broke into sobs. It was Friday, the 13th.

"Oh, we can never be happy! Why didn't I prevent him from proposing tonight?" Then the other events came back. She had looked at the moon over the wrong shoulder and had never even said "money, money money."

And then that cat which had run across their path. It was black, the biggest she had ever seen.

Fanny was sobbing bitterly now. Her dream was over. The moon, the cat and Friday the 13th, all the signs conspiring against her. Slowly and with as much emotion as if the cause had been a real one demanding heroic sacrifice, Fanny drew the ring from her finger. Before she retired she wrote a note to Lew, enclosed the ring, and looked out of the window, once more at the moon. The world was no longer a beautiful place.

Of course Lew called the next evening for an explanation.

"You seemed so happy last night," he said. "I can't understand. Tell me, have any guys been telling lies about me?"

Fanny shook her head.

"You don't act any too happy about breaking it off?"

"Still the girl looked at him, dumb in her sorrow. It was too much for Lew.

"If you'd only say something, tell me where I'm wrong. I might fix it." It wasn't right for her to act like this. He picked up his hat and turned to meet her appealing eyes.

"Ah, Fanny," he said, "I say, won't you marry me?"

"Are you proposing again? All over again?"

"Sure I am, what did you think? And I'll do it until you say 'yes'."

"Yes," said Fanny, and for while the wondering suitor asked no questions.

"You see," Fanny explained to his satisfaction, "I couldn't make up on that old proposal because that one was, er, delivered on the 13th and Friday. All the time I was hoping you'd do it all over again, a new one, and this is the 14th and there's no cat and—and—"

"And, oh say, look what I found today!" Lew exhibited a four-leaf clover.

Fanny's joy was complete. The plans were made once more. There was no doubt they would be very happy.

"The luckiest thing of all," said Lew to himself as he walked away for the second successive evening the accepted lover, "was my keeping that four-leaf clover all this while. It's a wonder she didn't see it was too old to have been picked today."

DAILY FASHION HINT

Prepared Especially for The Glendale Evening News

LONG-WAISTED BATHING SUIT

Nowadays one plans bathing suits not for one season, but for all-year-round, because of the indoor swimming pools which are growing in popularity everywhere. This long-waisted model is fashioned of black taffeta, trimmed with fancy braid. A two-piece collar finishes the round neck, and the armholes may be cut larger and bound with ribbon instead of having sleeves inserted if preferred. There is a two-piece skirt which is gathered at the upper edges and open at the sides. Medium size requires 4 1/2 yards 36 inch material.

Pictorial Review Bathing Suit No. 1619. Sizes, 34 to 48 inches bust. Price, 35 cents.

SIMPLE, ORIGINAL, SMART

Charming frock this, fashioned in polka-dotted voile and trimmed with cotton crepe. The inner border for the vestee is finished with blanket-stitch embroidery. This may be varied, however, lace being used instead of the crepe. The model is ideal for well-developed figures, and the lines are so smart that it is appropriate for wear almost any hour of the day. Medium size requires 5 yards 36-inch figured and 1 yard plain material.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 1598. Sizes, 34 to 50 inches bust. Price, 35 cents.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KEN FORBES

PRETTY DRESSES

So many women go wrong in choosing their clothes that I think a word or two about fashions is sometimes a necessary part of the Beauty Chats. Styles today are particularly kindly to the homely women.

This year, and undoubtedly next, the basque waist and full skirt will be much worn. By a clever draping of soft lace fichus and an exaggerated fullness to the skirt, a quaint as well as fashionable effect can be achieved, and the woman can make herself look artistic. As the basque part is loose the figure is concealed.

The straight chemise dress is still in favor, and though we are threatened with a revival of 1880-1890 styles, which are becoming to no one, we will undoubtedly settle down to several years of straight loose lines and a return of the Russian tunics. These styles, the lines of which are simple and good, are becoming to everyone, since they will admit artistic variation in their details.

Ready-made clothes are so cheap and so well cut nowadays that it is certainly better for the unskilled woman to buy a few things correctly made, rather than to waste her time and good material producing many failures. However, I should advise any woman who has a little leisure to learn elementary dress-making, for at no other time has it been so easily possible to make good looking clothes oneself.

The brief suggestion of a sleeve cut in one piece with the dress, which is now correct for day as well as evening, and the straight loose lines of the slip-over dresses are all exceedingly easy for the amateur. There is still time to make and wear out gingham or voile frocks; even if one or two are spoiled in the making. The cost is never more than a dollar or so.

It is a splendid thing to be able to design and make your own clothes. You can then express your individuality in dress.

Mrs. T. H. L.—You can break yourself of making these lines in your forehead if you will remind yourself of it until you counteract the tendency. This can be done effectively by first smoothing out the lines with the finger tips and then stretching a piece of court plaster over the place. You will not notice the plaster unless you start to frown, then there will be an unpleasant tug at the skin which brings to mind that you are offending. A repetition of this treatment whenever it is convenient, should speedily break up this or any other bad facial contortion habits.

Make your own pretty things

Mildred S.—It would hardly be possible for you to lose those dainty little half moons at the base of the nails. Very few people have them, but when they do they retain them indefinitely.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

Cereal Grains

The same thing that I have said about the milling of wheat applies to corn. A large part of the vital parts are taken away from the flour and used for animal feedings, as are the bran and germ of the wheat. But we are feeding the wrong animals! Our children (and we, and the time is coming when their value will be known and there will be a sufficient demand for whole grains to keep the supplies moving so fast that they will not spoil and then the millers will be more willing to see that we get them.

Rice

Rice in Asia occupies the same place that wheat does in America and Europe. It is used as the main starch food there. The rice, like the other grains, becomes infected with insects unless the bran and the germ layer are removed. This removal of the bran and germ is called polishing.

In Asia those who have largely on polished rice and fish develop the disease beri-beri—a severe inflammation of the mucous membranes of the stomach and intestines, and of the nerves. I have told you of this when I wrote on vitamins.

The fact has become pretty well known that polished rice is a very deficient food, and now some manufacturers are putting on the market a brown rice and giving the impression that this brown rice is unpolished. According to McCollum, ordinary brown rice is a polished rice and differs from the white rice only in that it has not received a coating of glucose and talcum. So this practice obviously is a fraud. Polished rice is a good wholesome energy food, but of course cannot be depended upon for complete proteins, vitamins or mineral salts. Contrary to a common impression, rice is not a high protein food. It averages only about nine per cent; and its proteins, like the proteins of all the cereals, are not complete—that is, they do not furnish all the protein needs for growth and repair. So rice should be served not as protein food, but as a starch vegetable.

Oats

The oat differs from the other cereals in that it has a large percentage of protein. But its protein, like the other cereal proteins, is incomplete. The germ of the oat is now being removed by the modern process of milling. You know what that does to it.

Oatmeal is a splendid cereal for children because of its high protein and iron and lime content. Add milk to complete its protein.

Buckwheat

Buckwheat is largely used for pancakes and griddle cakes. The coloring matter in buckwheat affects some people by sensitizing the body to light and they develop what is known as the buckwheat itch.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman, 26, and mother of a little girl of 5. My husband has none of the common faults of men, such as drinking, cards, etc., but our lives are very unhappy, due to the fact that he is very queer—unnatural. He never goes out, or takes me out, and does not want company at home. I real companionship existed between us I could possibly do without other people, but he never reads; we have no piano; and he is absolutely lacking in affection.

I have tried every way to improve matters, tried to read to him and he would walk out of the room. I rented a piano and he criticized my playing. I have invited refined people to a few houses, bought tickets to a few shows. But nothing worked. If I tried to show my love for him he would discourage me and say I was silly. I tried going out without him and single girls didn't want a married woman along. Married women didn't want me without my husband. I went alone to a few places and felt desolate and cheap.

My husband leaves the house at 6 in the morning and returns at 6 at night, eats, reads the paper, fusses around the house, making criticisms, changing the position of a chair or a picture, and then goes to his own room to bed.

After my housework is finished, even though I sew, read or take a walk with my little girl, I still have time and desire for something.

My little girl is so very good and no trouble. She is outdoors all day and in bed asleep at 7:30 each evening. We could enjoy life so much. My duty to her keeps me from movies during the day, and so an evening of pleasure once or twice a week would be something to live for.

What can I do about it? Rec-omend myself to or try a new life on my own efforts? I am surely unhappy and sometimes melancholy I feel like turning the gas.

MRS. J. F.

You have tried in every way grow closer to your husband; you cannot blame yourself for lack of closeness between you. You had no child I would certainly advise separation, but because of the child, the condition of your life will probably be better if you remain with your husband. Because of your devotion to the little girl, it would make you most unhappy to work during the day and be away from her that you could not do your duty as a mother.

My advice is to remain with your husband until your child old enough to be left alone unless you feel confident that she will give as good care as you can give her. Encourage friendship on the part of your husband and when he shows interest in something, respond. It seems useless, however, for you to try to create interests for him which mean nothing to him. There is nothing so disagreeable as a moody man who refuses to talk or contribute to a happy home atmosphere. Such a man is most difficult to handle and usual less friction arises when he let alone.

You are probably too sensitive and imagine you are not wanted by other people. There are many lonely women—working girls, widows, unhappy wives and unmarried girls without work to occupy their interests. Continue to look for a friend and I am confident you will find some one who will enjoy to theatres and entertainments with you.

I sympathize with you with my whole heart, but I cannot give you advice which will solve your problem.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Working out a test for determining the potency of the serum used in the treatment of meningitis has been part of the work of Miss Alice C. Evans of the Hygienic Laboratory of the United States Public Health Service, Washington, D. C. Just now she is at work on the micro-organism which causes Malta fever, a disease particularly troublesome in Mediterranean countries and existing in our southwestern states. It is contracted by drinking goat's milk.

Miss Evans was brought up on a farm among the hills of northern Pennsylvania. Most of her early education was obtained at the district school, then she entered Cornell university. After graduation she took postgraduate work at the university of Wisconsin.

She has been engaged in bacteriological work for the government ever since leaving college—at first in dairy bacteriology for the United States Department of Agriculture and at present with the Public Health Service.

"The Useful Women," an organization which is a sort of league of fairy godmothers, has started operation in Manchester, England. Under its guidance bachelors requiring wives, elderly gentlemen looking for someone with whom to discuss politics, brides needing advice about trousseaus or hostesses seeking "fillers" at a dinner party will all be assisted.

Mrs. Lily, the daughter of a former lord mayor of Manchester, who is starting the scheme, explains that in addition to the who want to see Manchester, exercise dogs, provide players for bridge parties in emergencies, search for missing relatives, do family shopping, find vacant houses, teach languages and read books in almost every tongue, arrange tours and do the packing.

Luncheon
Ramekin Tomatoes

Wholewheat Bread

Ramekin Tomatoes: Scald and peel six small tomatoes. Butter six individual ramekins (or small glass baking dishes) and put one tablespoon of plain white sauce into each. Add the whole tomato and pour a little more of the white sauce over the top (in all, you will need one cup of the white sauce). Sprinkle with chopped parsley and one tablespoon of grated onion. Stand the six dishes in a baking tin, and bake in a moderate oven for forty minutes. Serve hot.

Chocolate Bread Puddings: Soak one-half cup of stale bread crumbs in one cup of scalded milk. Melt one-half square of unsweetened chocolate, add to it three tablespoons of granulated sugar and enough milk (taken from the bread and milk) to make the right consistency to pour. Now combine this chocolate mixture with the bread and milk, add a pinch of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of ground cinnamon, a few drops of vanilla and one beaten egg, and turn all into a buttered pudding dish. Bake for forty minutes in a moderate oven. Serve hot with a hard sauce.

Escalloped Eggs: Make one and one-half cups of ordinary white sauce (by thickening a cup and a half of sweet milk with a little flour, adding one teaspoon of butter, and salt to season) and pour this sauce into a buttered baking dish alternately with a layer of sliced, hard-boiled eggs. You will need six cold, hard-boiled eggs in all. Sprinkle the dish with salt, cover with crumbs, dot with bits of butter and bake in a hot oven till the sauce bubbles through the crumbs. Serve at once.

Tomato Jelly Salad: This is a very popular salad for "special occasions." It is moulded in little tomato-shaped aluminum moulds, so that the jelly resembles a tomato when turned out of the mould onto lettuce. Soak one and one-fourth tablespoons of granulated gelatine in one-half cup of cold tomato juice until the gelatine swells. In the meantime heat two cups of extra tomato juice with five whole cloves and one-half teaspoon of salt, and after reaching the boiling point let it continue to boil for one minute. Remove the hot juice from the range, and stir till gelatine is dissolved. Now strain the liquid into the individual tomato-shaped moulds (wet the moulds first, by dipping in cold water) and stand in a cool place to become firm. Chill before unmoulding on lettuce leaves. Served with either boiled sauce or mayonnaise dressing.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, so, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use your full name, street number, and the volume of your city and state.—The Editor.

Side Talks

WHAT WE ALL MUST HAVE

Practically everyone, to save his self-respect, must feel that he has distinction in some way.

You will find that a key to a great deal of human conduct.

Folks are willing that other people shall have distinctions in their lines if they can have distinction in their own particular line.

Her Life Preserver
I was thinking of a very competent woman. She is not especially good looking, she has never married, she has no special position. Her competency is her distinction.

Someone was complaining the other day because this woman always thinks she knows more about household affairs than anyone else could possibly know, and is always holding up her way of doing things as the only way. The reason is this, as I see it—that is her sole claim to distinction. If she didn't hang onto it she would have no claim, and so she hangs onto it as a life preserver that will keep her from sinking into the sea of mediocrity.

One cannot bear to think of oneself as mediocre and so one exalts and emphasizes whatever line one has some claim to distinction in.

If one has little money but a good education, one makes education the criterion of distinction.

If one has little education but has made money, one convinces oneself, and tries to convince others that the only real red blooded sign of ability and worth is the capacity to win financial recognition.

If one belongs to the middle class and knows one will never belong to any other, one gets a lot of satisfaction out of criticizing and condemning the upper classes. The sense of superiority their sins and follies give is a precious possession with many people.

Tomorrow—Have You Read Yours?

The professor swims from the sinking boat and climbs up on the bank. Then, dashing in again, he returns to the wreck and rescues his wife.

"But why didn't you save her before?" asks the listener in wonderment.

"Ah, my dear sir," was the learned man's reply. "I was bound to save myself first. Self-preservation is the first law of nature."—Pittsburgh Post.

TODAY—Jim Larkin Busy in Erin; Brooding Over Labor Troubles.
TOMORROW—Paris Pedestrianism Perilous; Tax on Bachelors Is Proposed. By Alice Langelier, Paris Correspondent.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL
For International News Service

DUBLIN, July 16.—Now that the DeValerites have decided to give Ireland a rest, Jim Larkin has stepped in to keep the excitement going. Seizing buildings has become a national pastime in Ireland, so to speak. A year ago Rory O'Connor and the men were taking possession of buildings as fast as the clock ticked minutes, and now Jim Larkin has turned his hand to the same game.

Larkin is general secretary of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, by far the greatest labor organization in Ireland, and apparently the officials of the union did not give him satisfaction during his enforced stay in the United States. Anyway, he was up in arms against the officials the moment of his return, and after some violent speeches he, with his followers, seized Liberty Hall, the headquarters of the union, and the offices in another district of Dublin. These officials got a writ of eviction against him in the court, and that is how the matter stands at present.

But this is only the beginning of Irish labor difficulties. Irish labor is facing a big split. There will be a general election in September or October upon universal suffrage, when every man and woman over twenty-one will be entitled to vote. Labor already a powerful opposition to the government in the Dail, promises to double its numbers if not to obtain the reins of government. Now, it is thought, it will have its hands full fighting its domestic troubles. Larkin may run his own nominee against the official labor party. Of course this will split the working man's vote, and as a consequence it is feared labor will not be nearly so powerful in the next Dail as it is now.

High wages and short hours are having their effect upon Irish trade. The Irish manufacturer cannot compete with his rivals in Belfast and England. Recently the Irish government wished to have some of its ships repaired and invited contracts from firms in the Free State and Belfast. The

"My dear Nannie," said Billy Whiskers to his little wife one fine morning in October, when the trees were ablaze with red and yellow and the pumpkins lay ripe in the fields. "This lovely weather makes one glad to be alive. The country is so beautiful in its fall dress and the little fleecy white clouds floating on the deep blue of the sky make such a pretty picture."

"Speaking of pictures makes me think of the wonderful pictures I have seen in the galleries when on my travels. And it also reminds me, my dear, that you have not had a trip for a long while, but have stayed right here on this old farm, seeing and hearing nothing of what is going on out in the world, until it has begun to make you feel old. Nothing like a little excitement and the obstacles to overcome to make the blood run through one's veins quicker and to loosen up the muscles. Consequently I say we take a trip. I have already been at home quite a long time for me. In fact, ever since I got back from Panama."

"Oh, it would be lovely, Billy, to go on a trip with you once more, for I always enjoy myself so much when going around seeing the sights with you. Only, of course you do take such chances now and then of getting hurt or into scrapes, that it makes my heart stop beating. Still I am willing to be scared half to death just to go once more on a trip with you."

"Very well, then, it is settled that we go."
"When had you thought of starting?"
"Had not given it a thought until this minute. But say we go tomorrow?"
"Impossible, Billy! I could not get ready so soon!"
"Just like a woman!" said Billy. "Have to go to so much you can't start at a minute's notice. Now tell me what in the world you really have to do to get ready with no clothes to make, no hats to buy and no trunks to pack."

(Tomorrow you will see what Nannie said and how she decided the question.)

Returning from Washington, the lame duck wandered around town for several days, says the Pittsburgh Chronicle. Meeting him in front of the Post Office, an old friend slapped him on the back and said: "Well, I did my share, John; I voted for you." The lame duck thanked him feebly and responded: "I'm at a loss to understand: how I failed of election."
"Why so?"
"I can't find anybody who didn't vote for me."

PUSH PULL POWER AMPLIFIER

Where volume is required for a loud speaker the best means of handling this is with a push-pull amplifier requiring three audions for two steps of audio frequency amplification but with tremendous signal strength. This is the principle on which a well known power amplifier works and which will increase the volume of some stations so they may be heard several blocks or squares away from the receiving set. You have no doubt heard one of these loud speakers at one time or another and wondered how they obtained such signal strength.

The drawing shows how such a power amplifier is constructed and consists of two specially wound audio frequency transformers, one having a split secondary and the other a split primary. This is necessary as the last two audions are in parallel and connected to the specially wound transformers.

At points X and Y. The grids of these tubes have impressed upon them only one-half the voltage variations that would be impressed upon the grid of a single tube in this position, that is, the voltage is divided equally between the two audions. The outputs on these tubes, however, are additive in effect since the two windings S S of the output transformer are wound in the proper manner to add their effects. In this way it is practicable to use twice as large input voltage variations as with a single tube, and obtain correspondingly larger outputs and greater volume without distortion.

Where high plate voltage such as 110 volts are used on the plates of these tubes it is necessary to use a C battery of nine volts with the negative of this battery connected to the grid of the tubes.

This type of amplifier need only be used where great signal strength is the consideration; but where enough volume to furnish entertainment for the average fan is desired, this can be developed by using a loud speaking telephone and a horn.

This will give sufficient volume to fill an ordinary room when used with the usual amplifier amplification but with tremendous signal strength. This is the principle on which a well known power amplifier works and which will increase the volume of some stations so they may be heard several blocks or squares away from the receiving set. You have no doubt heard one of these loud speakers at one time or another and wondered how they obtained such signal strength.

The drawing shows how such a power amplifier is constructed and consists of two specially wound audio frequency transformers, one having a split secondary and the other a split primary. This is necessary as the last two audions are in parallel and connected to the specially wound transformers.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SHINY LEAVES

Uncle Wiggily was hopping past the home of the Twistytail pig family one day, when Mrs. Twistytail, the jolly fat lady pig, squealed out, saying:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, please come in here a moment, will you?"

"What is the matter?" asked the bunny gentleman, waving his long ears to and fro. "Has the Fuzzy Fox slipped in to nibble Curly and Floppy?"

"Oh, no, not quite as bad as that," answered Mrs. Twistytail. "But Squeakie Squealer, my little baby pig, has something terrible the matter with his nose and can't stop his crying."

"I'll come in and see what's the trouble with Squeakie," offered Uncle Wiggily, and the rabbit gentleman hopped into the piggie house.

There he saw poor little Squeakie Squealer huddled up in a chair, wrapped in a blanket, and Squeakie's nose was blazing red and all swelled up.

"Whatever happened to you, Squeakie?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Did you dig your nose into the sand and cut it on an old tin can?"

"No, Uncle Wiggily," answered Squeakie, speaking as though he had a cold in his head. "But I was down by the brook yesterday, playing with Toodles and Noddie Flat Tail, the beaver boys. We knocked the ball and it fell in a cluster of shiny leaves. I ran to get the ball and I stuck my nose in the shiny leaves. And today my nose hurts like anything, and—oh, dear!"

Squeakie began to cry and that made his nose hurt worse.

"What do you suppose could have happened?" asked Mrs. Twistytail. "And what does he mean by those shiny leaves?"

"I think he means poison ivy, or the mercury plant," answered Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose. "Poison ivy has very shiny green leaves. Tell me, Squeakie, went on the bunny rabbit, 'did the shiny leaves have three points or four points, or did they have five points?'"

"They had three points," answered Squeakie, after thinking about it a moment or two.

"Ah, I thought so," murmured Mr. Longears. "Poison ivy has three pointed leaves and it is very shiny. Always keep away from such vines, Squeakie. Leaves with five points are not poison. But now I must see what I can do to stop your pain."

Uncle Wiggily started to hop from the house.

"Are you going after Dr. Possum?" asked Mrs. Twistytail.

"No, I think I can take the pain from Squeakie's poison ivy nose myself," answered the bunny rabbit. "But, Dr. Possum told me how to do it. I am going to hop to the brook where he found the poison ivy. I think I shall find, growing near the water, something to take away the pain."

And, surely enough, the bunny gentleman found growing near inexpensive synthetic custard pies for use in comedy films.

TUJUNGA STORE IS MOVED TO NEW LOCATION

Grocery Transferred to New Site to Permit Start of Building Work

The Gray & Gray grocery closed for the day on Thursday with the front facing on Sunset boulevard, as usual. On Friday morning the firm was doing business in the same building, but on another street. The frame building was moved around on El Centro street to allow construction work on the new building to begin. The site of the new building is property originally owned by the Little Landers Cooperative Store Company and is next to the lot on which the co-operative store stood until the big fire some years ago, at which time the building was destroyed.

The property was purchased by Judge H. H. Breidt, president of the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce, from the stockholders in the Little Landers company with the stipulation that he build on the site within a year. The year has just expired. At the time of the sale all business in connection with the old Little Landers company was finished and the company dissolved without loss to any of the stockholders and one of the original business organizations of the colony passed into history.

The store was operated for three years previous to last summer by A. Garman & Son, who sold to the present owners. Gray & Gray have made many improvements in service, quality and price in the year they have handled the business and the patrons have responded generously.

Made Two Stores
The new building will be one story, fifty by sixty feet, with two store rooms, one seventeen by sixty and the other thirty-one by sixty. The front is to be finished in Mission style with large plate glass and double doors. The walls will be of brick, with cement floors, metal doors and Kawneer metal sash. A separate stock room with a large refrigerator will be a feature of the building.

The large room will be occupied by the grocery and meat market and the smaller one will house the post office which has outgrown the little building that has served since the office was established. Plans for the building were drawn by architect Charles A. Williams of Los Angeles. Contractor R. J. Smith of Tujunga is doing the work. Preliminary preparations for the foundation were made Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Sumner H. Adams recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forster and son Ross. A double birthday celebration took place at the home of Mrs. Emma Y. Hoffman on Stevens Way in honor of Mrs. Hoffman and her son Calvin. Dinner was served for a number of close friends and the evening was spent at the Mission Play.

The Great Western Department store of Los Angeles held its annual picnic for employees and their families at the Garden of the Moon this year. Over three hundred were present and enjoyed games, swimming in the Garden of the Moon pool and dancing. Special prizes were given for dancing.

Leases Swimming Pool
Mrs. J. B. Johnson of North Sunset boulevard has leased the swimming pool from Mr. Wilcox, new owner of the Garden of the Moon, and will have it open for use between the hours of nine a. m. and nine p. m.

Carlton E. Windsor, 24, grandson of W. D. Wright of Tujunga, died Sunday morning, July 8, 1923 at seven o'clock at Martin's Sanitarium, Santa Monica, as a result of injuries sustained while at work on a steam shovel at Pacific Palisades, near Santa Monica. He suffered several broken ribs and internal injuries. The deceased was well known in Tujunga and had many friends there, having been employed for a time by the county road department and paying frequent visits to his grandfather. A mother and father and sister in the east survive him and mourn his loss. The funeral and interment were at Forest Lawn cemetery, Glendale.

Mrs. M. E. Buck, mother of Frank J. Buck, and niece and Mrs. Florence Daniels recently motored from San Bernardino to spend the day at the Buck mountain home on Alder street. Mr. Buck was in Tonopah, Nevada, at the time, but the visitors were entertained by Mrs. Buck and two cousins Fred and Henry Stewart of San Diego.

Women Plan Social
The social committee of the Woman's club of Tujunga will meet today at Miss Zoe Gilbert's Gift Shop to arrange details of the ice cream social to be held at Mrs. Sweet's home on Golondrina Drive July 26. The committee is made up of the following: Mrs. Charles Bloore, Mrs. Smithson, Mrs. Harriet Mills, Mrs. Underhill and Mrs. Francis.

Mrs. J. F. Houston and daughter Betty have been visiting Mrs. F. E. Ash at her home on Pine street. The guests are from Dallas, Texas.

Mrs. Culkins, of Sycamore street, has been enjoying a visit with her son, M. C. Culkins, who is spending his vacation with her. He is connected with the Southern California Edison company, stationed at Big Bear.

COMMENT That's All Glendale Gets More Fame Tied In Nautical Knot World Is Getting Better Premier Baldwin Practical By Gil A. Cowan

THREE items of more than passing interest noted in Saturday's edition of The Glendale Evening News:

First, Gustav Rasmus, Glendale industrial commissioner, offers to save the Washington elm, famous in history, which is reported dying at Cambridge, Mass.

Second, local yachtsmen are among those participating in a race from Santa Barbara to Hawaii, the most pretentious sporting event of the season.

Third, two men partially suffocated in a dirt slide at the excavation for the new Security Trust & Savings bank building.

The development of "plant-therapy" by Mr. Rasmus is said to be equal in plant life to glandular therapy among humans. It is interesting to note that Dr. Henry R. Harrower, the world's leading authority on the latter subject, also is a resident of Glendale.

This city also lays claim to one of the foremost exponents of anaesthesia, not to mention a dozen other internationally renowned experts who have made their home here.

As for yachting by Glendaleans, it is a pleasure indulged in by only a few, yet nothing more interesting in the way of recreation can be found. Over the bounding main in a sturdy little boat, at the tiller or tending the boom, is far more fun than changing tires and steering a car in dense traffic of a holiday afternoon.

While the writer doesn't know enough about the sea to distinguish between starboard, larboard, port or poop, suffice it to say some day we are going to accept a standing invitation to go cruising with a friend of ours who sails from Newport harbor.

Regarding the "cave in" at the Security building site, this accident marks a new era in building here. More such events will be chronicled as the city builds bigger and better buildings.

Looking down into the pit where the men are at work daily one must stop to admire the skill and ingenuity with which humans build great piles of steel and cement and brick to house their commercial and professional pursuits.

Great structures rising on every hand in the downtown district of Los Angeles are simply amazing, particularly the simplicity with which they are built. It is a wonder that more catastrophes do not occur in the trades connected with construction.

In the building of the pyramids of Egypt thousands of slaves were sacrificed to the task. No such notation for A. D. 1923. Yes, the world is getting better, day by day, appearances to the contrary. Did you ever stop for a moment and think of the great work being carried on through organizations such as the Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A. or kindred associations, the Rotary, Kiwanis, Exchange and other luncheon clubs, Community Service, etc.

Looking back over history we can see that the human race is becoming more tractable, more intelligent and gradually bringing itself out of the mire of superficial sophistry.

The education of the multitude is a matter of evolution. We overdo it for a while and nearly ruin our civilization by having too many trained for brain work. Then we slack up a bit and give a chance. At the present time manual labor is commanding $10 to $15 a day in the trades, or more than the average earnings in the medical profession.

So for the time we need not fear the curtailment of learning, although a few teachers may quake in their boots over the situation. Fact is, another decade will find us in the midst of even a greater educational program.

Premier Stanley Baldwin of Britain apparently has won the first round in disentangling the reparations situation in Europe. France has made concessions over the week-end which may even lead to the way out of the tense economic conditions facing Germany and other continental countries. With all of the British prime minister's practical suggestions we may once again see stability in Europe which will do more to bring the day of peaceful diplomacy than all of altruistic effort America may expend on its bankrupt cousins over there.

Introduces New Style Of Scripture Reading

At the Casa Verdugo church Sunday morning the Rev. B. C. Cory read Chapter 15 of the 1st Corinthians with "explanation preaching" as a variation from the usual sermon. This example of an old time custom was exceedingly interesting to the members of the congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cotton sang as a duet, a tenor and alto arrangement of "Only Jesus." Miss Beatrice Sasse sang a beautiful soprano solo, "The Radiant Morn Hath Passed Away."

"The Power of God's Love Is Conditioned According to Us" was the theme of a short sermon by Rev. Cory at the evening service.

BURBANK ROAD TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC SOUGHT

Boulevard to Parallel Tracks Of S. P. Advocated by Planning Expert

The regional planning commission has recommended to the Burbank board of trustees that a new major road be built to relieve the load now being carried by the San Fernando road.

Hugh Pomeroy, secretary of the commission, which has jurisdiction in the county outside of the cities, told the trustees relief on this important thoroughfare was absolutely necessary and suggested that the best plan is to run a parallel boulevard to take care of heavy truck traffic, leaving San Fernando to handle the passenger automobile traffic.

With the aid of road maps, Mr. Pomeroy went into the situation carefully with the trustees, showing that as nearly as possible the proposed parallel boulevard should follow the line of the Southern Pacific tracks on the south side. Flower street being looked upon as the logical nucleus for such a thoroughfare.

Mr. Pomeroy and other members of the commission pointed out that the road problem is one of the most important in the future as well as in the present of Southern California, and that unless adequate supervision is given over the various plans of subdividers and developers, the time will come when costly and tedious alterations will have to be made, to straighten out twisted and contorted streets and give outlying sections some method of inter-communication.

The regional planning commission has established a standard for streets and roads, it was brought out, three main types being recognized: major roads, secondary roads and bypath roads.

The major roads, carrying the main traffic, should be 90 feet in width, the commission feels; the secondary roads should be 80 feet in width and the bypath roads 60 feet in width. Hence, the proposed development of Flower street into a relief road for the San Fernando boulevard, would fall into the category of a secondary road and would be 80 feet in width, according to the commission's plans.

Planning Expert for City
Burbank is to have, gratis, the services of the best city planning experts possible to obtain, as a result of the generosity of Ben Marks, one of the leaders in the Benmar Hills development project.

The offer was made to the Board of Trustees by Mr. Marks at their last meeting, with a view to clearing up the whole matter of planning and zoning. Mr. Cheeney, among others, will be an expert planner called into consultation as a result of this offer. He is now working out city improvement plans at some of the beach towns.

With the co-operation of the Regional Planning commission, the Burbank Planning commission and one or more experts brought into the conference by Mr. Marks, it is felt that Burbank will soon have her planning and zoning problems cleared up.

Followers of Christ Sure of Persecution

W. A. Horn of 221 North Louise street, new president of the Men's Brotherhood, was well pleased yesterday morning at the attendance at the Bible class in the council room of the City Hall. Keith L. Brooks of Eagle Rock, class teacher, interpreted the story of Peter's release from prison.

"Those who are closest to Christ are almost sure of persecution!" he said "For 300 years Christianity was a persecuted religion in the Roman Empire and to confess Christ was at the hazard of life. Yet Christianity lived and thrived. Jesus was the first martyr among the apostles, the first to be stored to the actual presence of Christ. No other apostle has his death recorded in the Bible. His obituary is given in ten words. He got scanty obituary on earth but had a great entrance into heaven. The Christian does change things. The Christian can appeal his case to the King of Kings and get a legal discharge from heaven. There is a difference between presenting a petition and pressing a suit. The promise of God is 'not to the act but to the habit of prayer.'"

EAGLE ROCK SUMMON SESSION TO STUDY ZONES

Agreement on Ordinance Is Sought Before Hearing By Commission

The zoning committee of the Chamber of Commerce, together with a committee on co-operation from the Realty Board, will meet at 8 o'clock tonight, in the City Hall on East Colorado boulevard, in open session, for the purpose of allowing the people of the valley an opportunity to express their attitude toward the proposed zoning ordinance.

It is felt that it will be much wiser to be in accord at home before attending the hearing before the Los Angeles planning commission, set for the night of Friday, August 3. For this reason, tonight's meeting should bring forth large numbers of residents and property owners.

"When it is found what the majority desire," points out Donnell Montgomery, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, "there usually occurs a way to meet it. Hence, if anyone wants changes in the proposed map, or doesn't understand it, tonight is the time to take action."

Summer Schools Active
So large an attendance was enrolled at the Central school's summer session, the first day, that it was found necessary to increase the teaching staff. Those now offering instruction are Mrs. Reed, principal; and Miss Boly, Miss Christenson, Miss French, Miss Londergan, Mrs. Dust and Mrs. Maddox.

Attendance at the D. V. B. S., which the initiated knows means Daily Vacation Bible Schools—though not so large as last year, owing to the competition of the public school summer courses, has nevertheless brought out a very satisfying attendance, and interest, if possible, is greater than ever before.

One of these schools is being given by the Presbyterian church, the other by the Methodists. One of the attractions at the former school is the talk each Wednesday on some phase of missionary work. Last Wednesday Mrs. Allison, dressed in a Spanish costume, addressed the children for a few moments in Spanish. She then told them the mode of living of our neighbors in Guatemala, Central America.

Playground at Central
The Central school playground is now open daily, from 1 until 6 o'clock in the afternoon, for boys and girls of all ages, announces Mrs. Reilly, who some weeks ago appointed the presidents of the local Parent-Teacher associations as a committee of three to secure playground activities for young and old.

The committee comprises Mrs. J. C. Reiter, Central school; Mrs. S. B. Osborne, West End school; and Mrs. Ada Boyce, East End school. Mrs. Osborne is chairman of the committee, which has secured the services of Mr. Stoddard as playground supervisor.

Mr. Stoddard urges adults to come out and enjoy the Twilight League games and other activities of this daily hour. Handball, volleyball and many other games are played, he says, and the recreation afforded is just the thing to remind the men that they are only "boys grown tall."
